(REGULAR ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORTA) NEW YORK, Sept. 10.-Crippled, but still heeling far over in her strength and swiftness, the Defender followed the Valkyrie III across the finish line today. Less than a half-mile separated the two, and many an anxious eye kept pace, second by second, with the tim indicators as they moved around, and when it was seen that the Defender had not only lost nothing in the last twenty miles of the course, but had actually gained, a great shout went up for the gallant vessel.

There were cheers for the victor, to ut, although the Valkyrle III was the first challenger since 1871 to lead over the home line, the honor of her per formance was lost sight of for the time in the grand effort of the American, for own. It was a grievous accident that ruined the Yankee boat's chances, an accident which under the hair-splitting circumstances of the jockeying at the starting-line looked to be unavoid

Early in the morning the racers had isurely made their way down to the Hook from Bay Ridge. They circled in great rings about the lightship until the signals went up for the course and the skippers took a tighter grip on the wheel. Hank Haff had made a record in seamanship on Saturday, and the English skipper prepared to regain the maneuvered swiftly after the prepara-tory gun had been fired, and with the Haff made every effort to gain that po

Just before reaching the line, when the Valkyrie III was still to windward and the Defender to leeward, a length astern but still overhauling her, the American boat was blanketed so much that her baby jib-topsail and jib shook and Capt. Haff, seeing this, luffed up a little, evidently intending to let the other boat go ahead for the purpose of enabling him to pass under her stern and to windward. Capt. Sycamore, at and to windward. Capt. Sycamore, at the Valkyrie's tiller, noted this move and luffed up also. It was then that the thousands of watchers on the sur-rounding boats noticed now dangerously close to each other the racers ously close to each other the racers were. And just at that moment, too, a snap and a rending sound were heard and it was seen that the Defender's jib-topsail was flying loose in the wind. The Valkyrie's main boom had swung around and fouled the Defender's rigging. To those who had witnessed the accident and sprang forward at the ominous sound, it seemed as though the Defender trembled with the shock. They saw her topmast bend and her topsall swing over as though it would break away, and a groan went up as though the brave boat which had won so noble a victory a few days before was debarred from even an effort to save the topmast from breaking away completely, for it was already sprung from its fastenings, and Capt. Haft with a master stroke, taking his boom with a master stroke, taking his boom down to leeward, soon maneuvered her into safe position and gave chase. The Valkyrie III, which had crossed the line first, had gained a good lead by the Defender's disaster, and had probably a little more than a half mile advantage at the end of the first leg in the triangular course over which they sailed. Her gain was something less than four minutes in the beat to windward. From that on, however, the Defender, while not perceptibly closing the gap between them, lessened the time, and they crossed the line not much more than two minutes apart. The Valkyrie III, according to corrected time, however, won from the cup de-

The Valkyrie III, according to corrected time, however, won from the cup defender by just forty-seven seconds. Such an ideal day in the lower bay has seldom been seen. It was not what American yachtsmen call an ideal racing day, but nature has always been kind to Dunraven, that sallant English sportsman, and for the second time in the second race of the series for the America's cup and the honor of the sport, the winds and seas have favored the man who has come so often to the line, like a true Briton, with seldom a chance of winning, as events have happened.

Little was promised in the way of pleasant weather during the early hours of the day, for the clouds hung low and the fog spread itself over the waters and a misty rain fell. Old weather sharps declared that there might be a fair breeze outside, but rain it would. But soon after the long, keen racers weighed their anchors off Bay Ridge there came a burst of sunshine, velled in a golden haze, and when the old lightship off the Hook was reached there was a sky flecked only here and there with a light cloud.

Out through the Narrows and into the open water the Defender stood up high, far ahead of the Valkyrie III, and going under her own canvas almost before the Englishman thought of hoisting his mainsall.

Passing craft, inward bound, drew alongside to feast their eyes on the beauties, and, early as it was when the lightship was reached, quite a handsome fleet was drawn up to greet them. Later on there was life and motion at the start, although it was not such a scene as was presented on the day of the first race. Far back in the quiethours the sea was dotten nere and there by sais, and the smoke on the horzom told of an advancing fleet; and when the first gun was fired, a swinging vanguard, bright with color, was there to speed the racers on their journey. Then, while all eyes were on that invis-while it is thought some others may be unable to get here for the parade tomorrow.

The city has been resplendent with electric-light displays on the streets and buildings. Tonight everything is illuminated. Meantime the preparations for the great parade tomorrow are complete. The reports to the marshal of the day show that there will be at least 45,000 veterans in line.

Gen. Cohn expects from 10,000 to 20,000 during the night. The largest number ever reported in line was 20,000 at Washington.

The floats and other features of the parade are elaborate and everything is ready for forming the line. The rehearsal of the 200 trained voices that will sing patriotic songs was a great success today. The arrangements are so complete in everything that many visiting posts adopted resolutions of thanks to Director John H. Milliken and the Citizens' Committee. The Valkyrie's lead and her better position was not much improved during the first leg. The Valkyrie III did excellent work, but the Defender, going just as her mishap left her, clung to her rival. Within a few minutes it was seen that the Defender meant to sail the first leg without a jib-topsail, and to many of those on the excursion steamers and accompanying yachts this gave the first inkling that an accident had occurred and that the Defender's topmast was the weak spot. fender's topmast was the weak spot.
The course was down the Jersey coast, and nautical experts on board some of the boats, critically observing the Defender's progress, expressed them. fender's progress, expressed them-selves as believing she was only folwithout attempting to race. This be-lief was strengthened by the fact that directly after the fouling at the line a protest flag was run up with a vigor that denoted determination on the part mfles sufficient repairs were made to enable her to set a baby jib-topsall, after rounding the first leg. In the beat to windward, the watchers marked the Valkyrie III 3m. 52s. in advance of the Defender.

The second leg was expected to try the nerves of those who had set their hearts on a victory for the cup-defender, for her little jib-topsall set by the Valkyrie III, which was drawing tremendously. But the second ten miles was a veritable victory for the Yankee. She gained slowly, but steadily and turned the second mark not far behind her rival, she now having a better chance by long odds to win than a few miles back in the journey.

It cheered the anxious hearts on the floating city, for it is no exaggeration to say that ninty-nine-hundredths of those affoat were Defender men. The last leg was run home with the wind abeam, and there was a rush of steamers in the direction of the lightship. A ten-knot breeze lifted the top of a chance wave and the wash of the steamers tumbled the little craft about a bit, but far back the two single-stickers, the Defender's sails only showing, were skimming over a millipond, with their lee-rails awash and both rapidly overhauling the flotilla speeding in advance.

Little Queen Mab, herself a racer, came abeam and joined the steamers far ahead of the contestants and finally, being outfooted, was overhauled, first by one and then the other of her sister boats. She seemed to catch all the breeze and heeled over in an effort to run along with them, and she did give each, for a time, a lively brush, but at last faded back into the distance. Then the Navahoe, with a mainsall setting like the Valkyrie's, hove in sight near the lightship, and the final mile of the two was to be run. Toward the end it was evident that the gap was closing and the Valkyrie III had hardly crossed the line and got out of the way when the Defender came tearing along like a thoroughbred under the wire. She must have put on an extra burst of speed to gratify those who had kept their eyes on her white canvas while Capt. Hank Haff, when asked as to the accident, looked aloft grimly and bawled: "Valkyrie's main boom tore away our riging," and would say no more. That was the extent of the information to be had on the Defender.

Later it was given out at the New York Yacht Club that the Cup Committee will not render a decision in regard to the protest before tomorrow.

THE RACE.

THE RACE. NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—The commit-tee-boat, Walter A. Luckenback, was tee-boat, Walter A. Luckenback, was on the ground in good season and promptly hung up the signal which told the racers that the course would be over a triangle of ten miles to the angle, the first leg being to the windward south, the second northeast by east and the third was by west-half-west. As the committee-boat made known the directions of those in charge, the wind dropped to a speed of about five miles an hour from a force of something like eight miles. There was no kind of a sea on nor swell. The surface of the ocean was most favorable to the Valkyrie III. It was noticed while the contestants It was noticed wh le the contestants was most favorable to the Valkyrie III. It was noticed while the contestants were sailing around about the line that was to be made, that their sails set equally as well as they did on Saturday. This was especially the case with the Defender's white club topsail.

The preparatory gun was fired from the committee-boat sharp on the appointed time of 10:50 o'clock. Both yachts had baby jib topsails set, when, after some clever maneuvering about the line which had been drawn between the Luckenbach to the westward of the Sandy Hook lightship and the lightship, they both stood down to the line. After the skippers had performed all the monkeying that they could do above the line they finally made their way down to the start. Coming to that first station the Valkyrie III was to windward and the Defender something like two lengths astern to leeward.

first station the Valkyrie III was to windward and the Defender something like two lengths astern to leeward.

It was at this period, about half a minute before the starting signal had been given, that the Defender overnauled the Valkyrie III in a very rapid manner and had her nose almost up to the Valkyrie's beam when the latter eased off and blanketed the American boat so thoroughly that the Defender's baby jib-topsail and jib shook in the wind. Capt. Haff, when he saw his headsails shaking and the movement of the Englishman in the way of an attempt to blanket him, threw the Defender high up as though about to tack, or at least to pass under the Valkyrie's stern and get to windward of the Briton.

or at least to pass under the Valkyrie's stern and get to windward of the Briton.

The Valkyrie III was very promptly aware of this movement, and luffed up well into the wind. They were then both almost on the line. As the Valkyrie III luffed, her boom went smash against the jib-topsail of the Defender, and that concussion was the cause of the protest that came later. Of course, the Valkyrie III went over the line first and to windward. The Defender was close affer her, but she had barely got over the line when the sheet of her jib-topsail parted. Both boats were on the starboard tack at the time, so that both claimed that they had the right-of-way. It was a question among the experts who were looking on whether the Defender was at that moment the overhauling boat. If she had been, it was, according to rules, her place to give way. The fine point came in the discussions of the sharps whether the Defender, who had been blanketed and who had to fall back in speed because of her luff, was the overhauling vessel. All the same, at the parting of the baby jib-topsail sheet, the sail flapped a great deal in the wind and assisted in the loosening of its own stay and the top-stay on the starboard side. The slack of the topmast-stay allowed the topmast to bend over toward the water on the port side so far that it looked for a moment as though the mast was about to be carried away. Capt. Haff instantly eased off his vessel. He probgan at 2:30 o'clock. J. P. Goodwin of this city called for order and introduced Dr. Ort of Wittenburg College of this city, who offered prayer. Senator Sherman was introduced by Chalrman Day, and was followed by Gen. Bushnell, who was followed by Gen. Bushnell, who was followed by Gev. McKinley. Ex-Gov. Foraker followed Gov. McKinley. Ex-Gov. Foraker followed Gov. McKinley and Gen. Jones, the candidate for Lieutenant-Governor. Hon. James Hoyt of Cleveland and State Auditor Poe of Columbus spoke briefly.

After calling on Ohio Republicans, to stand by their principles in triumph as they had in adversity, Gov. McKinley presented an historical sketch, showing that Ohio has established her right to be called a Republican State. He spoke particularly of the Senatorial elections. He said:

"From 1861 to 1869 the Republicans had two Senators, Wade and Sherman. This year, 1855, we are going to resume our rightful place. Mr. Foraker will take the seat of Mr. Brice. Ohio Republicans are united firmly and resolutely on that proposition. The Republicans are to be congratulated that they have no rival candidates for the United States Senatorship. We have no contest among ourselves. Our contest is entirely with the Democratic party. We have but one candidate, and he enjoys the great distinction of having the indorsement of the last Republican State Convention, an indorsement without division of dissent, unanimously and enthusastically, and the distinction is one which, so far as I can recollect, is exceptional in the history of the Republican party in Ohio.

"In the present political divisions of the Senate of the United States, which are extremely close, a single Senator may determine the political complexion of that, body for years to come. It is the purpose of the people of this country in the present political contest of the very service of the senator of the publican service of the political contest to your proposition of the senator of the senat the purpose of the people of this country in the next national contest to give the Republican party full power, as I firmly believe. It is of the highest moment that we inaugurate that work-here in Ohio and this year make certain the election of a Republican United States Senator. All differences and divisions, if any have heretofore existed, have been swept away now and forever, and all Republicans should rally as one man to secure a decisive majority. In both branches of the Legislature which shall make certain and triumphant the election to the United States Senate' of ex-Gov. Foraker, the choice of the Republicans of the Republican and Democratic parties in Ohio. He congratulated the people that at last the Ohio Democracy had declared for sound money. After criticising the foreign and domestic policy of the Cleveland administration; the Governor asserted that the real subject of contention in Ohio is the tariff. He quoted Cleveland as opposing Senator Brice as regards the Brice-Gorman act and he also quoted the Cincinnati Enquirer as declaring that a veto by Cleveland would be 2 clean-up of much rubbish and unclean lines in the Democratic house-hold.

"Has the Democratic party of Ohio."

"Has the Democratic party of Ohio changed; its views since September.

the Brice-Gorman-Wilson act shall remain and the law be a permanent; set-the Brice-Gorman-Wilson act shall remain and the law be a permanent settlement of the tariff question? Is a law, using the language of Mr. Cleveland, which puts the wool of the farmer on the free list and protects the coal and fron ore of corporations and capitalists to receive the approval of the people of Ohio by their votes in November next?

"My friends, there is one objection to the law, if there were no others, which must make its permanency impossible. It falls to raise the revenues for the daily expenses of the government. That would condemn it in the judgment of the American people whatever difference they might have on the question of protection and free trade. The law, from the date of its enactment to the present time, and it is now a year old has not raised money enough from customs duties and internal revenue combined to meet the necessary expenses of the effective from the date of the experiment. bined to meet the necessary expense toms duties and internal revenue combined to meet the necessary expenses of the government."

Taking up the financial question the Governor said: "In the first two years under the financial policy of Mr. Cleveland's administration, which is so warmly commended by the Springfield convention, the government has been compelled to borrow $163,000,000, and the maintenance of the gold reserve now depends on a syndicate of foreign and home capitalists who are under contract to preserve the credit of the nation until the first day of October, a syndicate unknown to the laws and unrecognized in the government, hired to sustain the credit of the government? What a speciacle!"

"On the subject of money the Republican party stands where it has always stood-for good money, whether gold, silves or speer, all to be under the national authority at all times and everywhere, and interchangeable, by which we honestly measure the exchanges of the people, and deceive and chest no-body. It must be as sound and strong as the government itself, and as free from stain or taint as the flag of our country."

Ex-Goy. Foraker spoke at great searth, and was accorded the closest attention of the audience. He laid separation of the audience. He laid separation of the audience are longered administration to carry out its pleases, and specified what he believed to be injurious statutes passed by that party. ably felt that had he come up to the wind and met its full strength with his club-topsail going, the entire upper outfit would have been carried away. So he eased off to find out what real damage had been done. He discovered that the topsail had been sprung.

A PLUCKY CRIPPLE.

The Defender had, in good seamanship style, held up the red protest flag when the Valkyrie's boom interfered so much with her progress. Still she went on her journey very much worsted by the collision, but still gaining. After crossing the line she came around in about a minute and a half after the accident and something to leeward so far, because of Capt. Haff's apprehension that her upper starboard rigging would not hold, that a good many people said that she was out of the race; that she had given up. Others who knew better remarked that the Defender people would be cowards if they dropped out before they got a decision from the committee in charge, and it proved that they were right.

The Defender was out to race, even though a cripple, and she went on as a cripple, so that the wind-up of the day's business showed that the fastest wacht in Europe could only beat the crippled American over a thirty-mile triangular course by 47 seconds.

After the yachts came about to the port tack soon after crossing the line, the Valkyrie III was a good eighth of a mile to windward and several lengths ahead. As they stood away on the port tack the wind increased to eight or nine miles an hour. During the tack the Valkyrie III plainly outfooted and outpointed the Defender, who did not care to run up any sail on the jib-topsail. At 11:24 o'clock the Defender came about to starboard. The Valkyrie followed aspromptly as though she had been racing a fellow well met. On this tack the Defender pointed up yery well and went very fast, but the Valkyrie III did better in both points of sailing. They only stood away on this tack for about five minutes, when they came around together. All, the valkyrie III was doing better work on both pointing and footing. There was considerable wonder that the Defender without any jib-topsail did not point higher than she did, but, as a matter of fact, the Valkyrie III was going to windward all the time that she was going ahead. At 12:54 o'clock the Defender without any jib-topsail did not appear to least half a mile from the competitors, and remained well to leeward at that time.

The breeze was freshening from the south right along, and the Valkyrie III, being to windward, always felt the increase first. The same thing was seen as on Saturday in the matter of the way the boats went through the water. The sea was far smoother, there being not so much groundswell on, but the Valkyrie III splashed and threw spray from her bow for many feet, while the Defender slid through the waterias easily and smoothly almost as a snake. During the latter part of the beat-out to the first mark the Defender did better pointing, but her jib was shaking a good deal of the time. At 12:10 o'clock the yachts came around to port, and at 12:24 o'clock back again to starboard, on which tack they were both able to make the first mark, where their time was taken as follows: The Valkyrie III, 12:57:43 o'clock; the Defender, 1:01:35 o'clock. So it will be seen that the Valkyrie III led out to the first mark by 3m. 52s.

TO THE SECOND MARK AND HOME

TO THE SECOND MARK AND HOME As the Valkyrie III rounded, she set her big balloon jib-topsail and took in her jib. That big front sail filled magher jib. That big front sail filled mag-nificently, and with goodness knows how many horse power. The Defender "cranks" watched with all their eyes to see if their favorite would set her balloon jib-topsail. They wanted to find out if the Defender's rigging had been weakened as much as they feared. Alas, the Defender was only able to run up a baby sail on the jib-topsail stay.

Alas, the Defender was only able to run up a baby sail on the jib-topsail stay. A larger spread of canvas would have caused too much strain on the weakened stay. The Defender did, however, set a balloon stay-sail and not long afterward the Valkyrie III followed suit and sent up a balloon on-her forestay. The wind was then about southsoutheast, going at the rate of something like twelve miles an hour, and blowing well over the yachts' quarter, with booms well over the yachts' quarter, with booms well out to port.

On this second leg the crippled Defender overhauled the Briton by not less than seventeen seconds. At the end of this broad reach the yachts rounded the second mark as follows: The Valkyrie III, 1:58:10 o'clock; the Defender, 2:01:46 o'clock.

Now the wind had shifted to southwest-by-west, half-west, and sheets were hauled aft so that the vessels would meet the breeze abeam. As soon as the boats had both laid their course.

leg was, by compass direction, north-west-by-west, half-west, and sheets were hauled aft so that the vessels would meet the breeze abeam. As soon as the boats had both laid their course for home, the Defender with her sound rigging to windward began considerably to overhaul the Valkyrie III.

The Valkyrie III took in her balloon jib topsail and replaced it with a baby. She also set a balloon staysail, but do what she would the Defender overhauled her in a really ridiculous manner and gained on the English boat so fast that when the finish was reached the Valkyrie III was only 2 minutes 18 seconds ahead, after having gone over the starting line 1m. 2s. ahead. More than one competent witness of the day's sport said that, considering everything, the Valkyrie was beaten worse today than on Saturday. The Defender gained on her on the second and third legs. As a matter of fact, the only time at which both vessels had the same sails set was on the third leg, and during that run the Defender gained 1 minute 7 seconds. The few champions of the English boat who are left cannot tonight find any consolation in the achievement of the ship today. The official time-table is as follows:

The Valkyrie: Start, 11:00:13; first mark, 12:57:43; second mark, 1:58:10; finish, 2:55:22 o'clock; elapsed time, 3h. 55m. 9s.

The Defender: Start, 11:00:13; first mark, 1:06:35; second mark, 2:01:45; finish, 2:55:22 o'clock; elapsed time, 3h. 55m. 9s.

The Defender Start, 11:00:13; first mark, 1:06:35; second mark, 2:01:45; finish, 2:57:40 o'clock; elapsed time, 3h. 55m. 9s.

The Defender Start, 11:00:13; first mark, 1:06:35; second mark, 2:01:45; finish, 2:57:40 o'clock; elapsed time, 3h. 55m. 9s.

The Defender gained 1 minute 7 seconds on elapsed time, and, after deducting the 2s seconds which she allows the Defender, she winh by 47 seconds.

THE REGATTA COMMITTEE.

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—The tug Walter Luckenback, with the Regatta Committee, when asked in regard to the alleged fouling of the Defender by the Valkyrie, said that a protest had been entered and that the Regatta Committee had held a conference with regard to the matter while the tug was on her way to the dock, but that no definite conclusion had been arrived at.

After the race Commodore Kane said that the Luckenback had gone into the horseshoe, where C. Oliver Iselin went on board and spoke to the members of the committee. Lord Dunrawen sont a note to Commodore Kane at the same time. Commodore Kane at the same time. Commodore Kane did not think that any conclusion in the matter could be reached by the committee tonight, but expected it could be definitely settled tomorrow morning.

C. O. Iselin of the Defender says that the Valkyrie's boom struck the topmast back-stay of his yacht, instead of the jib-topsail stay.

How New Jersey People Saw the Great Struggle.
HIGHLANDS OF NAVESINK (N. HIGHLANDS OF NAVESINK (N. N.,) Sept. 10.—A cloudy sky and a smooth leaden-looking sea over which light southwest airs were sweeping gently was the outlook from here at 6 o'clock this morning. The Valkfrie III and Defender were absent from their usual moorings, having passed the night almost within a biscuit-toss of each other off the Atlantic Yacht Club's anchorage at Bay Ridge.

The Britishers, not much discouraged by the defeat of Saturday, have shifted some ballast from aft to forward at the suggestion of George L. Watson, her designer. They have had her remeasured and have given her a good trial spin. They confidently expect her to show up in better form today. Real so-called Valkyrie weather prevailed off the Hook this morning, smooth sea and light airs, but no patriotic American doubted the Defender's ability to make it "three straight."

Rear Commodore James C. Bergen of the New York Yacht Club, who is in control of the volunteer patrol fleet, has made a second request to the captains of the steamers which accompany the racers to avoid interference with the yachts and it is predicted that if his injunctions are not attended to Sandy Hook waters will never have the pleasure of seeing another international yacht race under any conditions, for the next challenger may stipulate that the contest shall take place off some part of the coast where interference will be impossible.

Off shore at 7 o'clock the wind was only blowing about four miles an hour, but this was an improvement on the light airs earlier this morning. Coasting craft beating down along the shore made little progress except by the aid, of the last of the ebb tide. However, there were breaking through the mante of the clouds in earnest and the wind came breezing up from the southwest until it was stirring at the rate of six miles an hour, but off shore it was still very thick, it being impossible to see much further north than the end of the Hook and Scotland lightship could be plainly seen.

The Valkyrie III at 8:42 o'clock could be seen following the Defender through the swash of the channel. The Defender and flowing safern of the 'Defender and the valkyrie III was half-way down the racers out to the lightship. The Luckenback, with the attendant tu swash of the channel. The sea did not bother the Defender in the slightest degree.

At 9:10 o'clock the Sandy Hook lightship could not be seen from here, although the two yachts could be made out on the way there. The Valkyrie III at 9:15 o'clock was well out past the Hook, with mainsail, club-topsail and two head-sails set. She was still in tow and, like the Defender, glided along easily. The wind was still light and from the southwest. The schooner yachts and excursion fleet at 9:20 o'clock began to show up off the end of the Hook, and the Navahoe was just rounding the point. The City of Bridgeport, the Valkyrie's tender, will not apparently, follow the races today, as she was coming in past the Hook at 9:20 o'clock, leaving the Valkyrie III to be towed out to the lightship by a tug.

The Defender at 9:27 o'clock dropped her tow and was standing out toward Sandy Hook lightship under her three lower salls and on a starboard tack. The Valkyrie III was still in tow with her large club-topsails and jib pulling nicely in the light wind. Shortly after 9:30 large club-topsalls and jib pulling nicely in the light wind. Shortly after $2.30 o'clock the Defender went about on a port tack, and a couple of minutes later went round again and headed out to sea, and toward Sandy Hook lightminip. The Valkyrie III was standing out after her and was a considerable distance behind. The fog at $2.40 o'clock was thicker. Sootland lightship could only be indistinctly seen. The Defender was in line with it, and about a mile from the other side. As seen from this point, the Valkyrie III was about half-way out. The Defender was then setting the large white club-topsall which she used on Saturday. Then the Defender disappeared in the fog, which seemed to be rolling in separate banks off coast, for almost at the same time the Sandy Hook lightship and the Mackay-Bennett cable steamer annohored to the westward of it, were made out. At 10 o'clock there was pouring out through the channel, a long line of excursion steamers, tugs, steam yachts, schooner yachts and smaller oraft reaching from the neighborhood of the Hook to New York, apparently. At 10:10 o'clock the wind was still light, about four miles an hour and about south-southwest here, when the boats came down toward the imaginary line. Those aboard the Defender were Capt. Hank Haff at the wheel, and First Mate Terry at the sheets. Aft were W. D. Duncan, Nat Herreshoff, the designer; Newberry B. Thorn, Woodbury Kane, Mrs. C. Oliver Iselin, Herbert C. Lees, W. K. Vanderblit, C. Oliver Iselin and David D. Henderson, representing Lord Dunraven and the Royal Yacht squadron. On board the Valkyrie III were Lord Dunraven, Lathana Fish, representing the New York Yacht Club; George Watson, the designer; Vice-Commodere Arthur Glennie, Sallmaker Ratsey, Maitiand Kersey, Lady Rachael Windham Quinn and Allee Windham Quinn. Capt. Cranfield was at the stick, and Capt. Sygamore was busily engaged in directing the crews.

The fleet of steam yachts at 10:28 o'clock were spinning around the committee boat at the course of the ringile to port or to sta around and headed away from the Defender on the starboard tack.

At 10:50 o'clock the preparatory signal was fired, and the yachts began the usual jockeying for position. The British yacht blanketed the Defender. The Defender worked out from under the ise only to be again blanketed. The yachts crossed the line in the following official times: The Valkyrie III, 11:00:14 o'clock, the Defender, 11:01:15 o'clock. At 11:02:30 o'clock, after a short tack to starboard, both boats came about and stood directly toward this point on the port tack, the Defender to leeward and coming a point higher than the Valkyrie.

coming a point higher than the Valkyrie.

Shortly after the start the Defender holsted a protest flag, and the protest was allowed, it being believed here that the Valkyrie III fouled the Defender during the luffing matches. It seemed from here as if one of the Defender's shrouds was injured, but nothing definite could be made out. Her beautiful white silk club topsail was in great shape, and there was not the slightest sign of a break.

There was a better breeze to windward. The excursion fleet gave the yachts all the room they wanted. From here it was possible to look down directly on the decks of both yachts. Through the great glass of the Associated Press the rival skippers could be seen at their posts. Both yachts at 11:27 o'clock were still holding of shore on the starboard tack, the Valkyrie III apparently about half a mile ahead.

The Defender shortly after 12:16 seen at their posts. Both yachts at 11:27 o'clock were still holding off shore on the starboard tack, the Valkyrie III apparently about half a mile ahead.

The Defender, shortly after 12:10 o'clock, went about on the port tack. The Valkyrie III immediately followed suit. The Defender seemed to be about five seconds faster than the Valkyrie III, and, from their positions, it looked as if the Defender had crawled up a little on her rival, but the race was undoubtedly very close. The two yachts, about 12:20 o'clock, went about on the starboard tack. The Defender was then only a quarter of a mile behind and clearly outfooting her rival. At 12:23 o'clock the Valkyrie III was being held by the Defender in good shape, it seemed from here, although flog prevented accurate observations. However it did not seem as if the Valkyrie III was going away from the Defender. About 12:40 o'clock the Defender seemed to start ahead again and reduce the gap between herself and the Valkyrie III and her windward work became really superb. She pointed better than the British yacht, and footed better to windward, overhauling the Valkyrie.

By 1 o'clock the Valkyrie III disappeared in the fog although the Defender could still be seen from here. The wind at the time of turning the first mark blew at the rate of from twelve to fifteen miles an hour, so that the boats seemed likely to make good time on the second leg. If the wind should hold out it appeared as if they would finish before 3 o'clock. It was not until 1:44 o'clock that the fog lifted sufficiently to enable the boats to be seen reaching for the second mark with their balloon jibs set, and going at a lively rate. Although it was impossible to distinguish clearly between them from this distance, it was believed that the Valkyrie III was leading by a short mile. She was carrying mainsail, clubtopsail, stay-sail, jib and No. 1 jib-sail and, barring accidents, was looked upon as certain to cross the line a winner before 3 o'clock. The excursion feet was then heading up to the finish

The yachts are both in line from this point, and the Defender's gain can easily be seen.

By 8 o'clock the wires to the Associated Press were in use from this point, eighteen miles out to sea. At this hour the weather indications were for a good racing day, and an American day at that, for the triangular course is looked upon as favoring the Defender.

The weather is quite thick on the horizon, but a pink line in the distance gives promise of a clear day. There is also a prospect of a fair sailing breeze, ealthough three knots an hour is the limit of the wind at present. The water will favor the British host, for it is almost as smooth as glass and with none of the heavy chop sea that seemed to affect the Valkyrie III on Saturday. ON BOARD THE MACKAY-BENNETT, Sept. 10.—Coming in in. the last three miles the American boat picked up considerable lost ground, and, notwithstanding her protest fing, gallantly finished. As they came down to the line the two boats were dreased allike. Each carried mainsail. No. 1 club topsail, balloon staysail, fib and No. 3 fib-topsail. They eased sheets on the portack just before the line was crossed. The Valkyrie III carried a very heavy bone in her teeth, kicking up a great wave before her. The Defender made little fuss. When the Valkyrie III got just off the line, she stowed a bit and lost headway. Both yachts went up toward the city when the race was over, amid the tooting of whisties. The Valkyrie III wins, subject to protest. The Regatta Committee will hear the case on its merits. It is thought that probable decision will be that the two yachts sail an extra race.

Beach,) Sept. 10.—The Defender raised her protest flag at the start. Her libsheet parted and the flapping of the sail seemed to shake the topmast backstay out of the spreader, and caused the topmast to spring. The Defender will probably claim that the accident occurred before the starting signal was given. The committee did not allow the protest.

DUNBAVEN'S BIG CONTRACT.

Re Will Pension His Crew for Life

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—The statement is made that Lord Dunraven has offered a pension of 30 shillings weekly to every member of the crew of the Valkyrie III, should they succeed in winning the America's cup.

In an address to the sallors and their commanders he said: "While I feel satisfied that every man will do his duty, I am anxious to encourage you to exert yourselves to the utmost to win the remaining series. With that end in view, I dare say if the cup goes back to England by reason of your seamanship, I will pension every man for life, and pay each of you 30 shillings so long as each one of you live." Actuated by common impulse the crew broke out into cheers.

Lord Dunraven again impressed them

by common impulse the crew broke out into cheers.

Lord Dunraven again impressed them with his ambition to snatch a victory from what now appears almost certain defeat, and then retired. The men afterward held an informal meeting and discussed the offer. Although they declined to talk, it was clear from their manner that they had entered into a compact to strain every nerve to win. Dunraven's action is without precedent, either considered by itself or from the standpoint of generosity. It is the 'ambition of his life to place in the hands of his Queen the trophy that passed out of the possession of England nearly half a century ago. The ages of the twenty-six members of the crew will average 30 years. They are all strong and healthy, and their expectations for life may be set at 70 years. In that time they will each have received £3120 sterling; or $15,600, and in the aggregate £82,160, or $400,800. That the crew appreciated Lord Dunraven's inducement was shown by their work in today's race.

But Weren't Those Englishmen Awfally Anxious to Win.

LONDON, Sept. 10.—(By Atlantic Cable.) The excitement in London tonight over the international yacht race off Sandy Hook is greater even than that which prevalled on Saturday night. Bulletins reported at various public places this evening attracted great crowds, and at the clubs the interest manifested was most intense. As the cable messages were received announcing the approach of the yachts to the finish so close together that the result might be either one way or the other, the crowds became fairly will with excitement, and when finally it was announced that the Valkyrie III crossed the line a victor, the enthusiasm of the waiting multitudes knew no bounds.

The fact that the race was sailed by the Defender under protest afforded room for some remarks, but the general opinion seemed to be that no injustice would be done to the British boat.

The anxiety as to the issue of today's races was wrought up to a fever heat by the frequent issuing of extra editions of the evening papers giving bulletins of the progress of the race, bringing general joy over the victory.

WHAT HAS HAPPENED?

MONTREAL, Sept. 10.—Thousands of people yelled themselves hoarse in Sturgis street, in front of the newspaper offices, as soon as the final result of the yacht race was announced.

For some minutes, when the result was in doubt, the crowd groaned, but when the official notice was published it went wild. The Star issued Valkyrie III badges, and so great was the rush that the growd all but wrecked the business office. Union Jacks were carried everywhere, and the whole town is in a fever of excitement.

their country demands. Neither side has the least desire to win otherwise than on its merits.

Daily News. The distance between the yachts at the finish was all too littite to enable us to treat the regrectiable collision by which the Defender suffered as a consequence.

The Standard. The races which have been sailed throw little light upon the respective merits of the rival craft, for the final result is as open as it was before they met. It was unfortunate that the foul occurred, but happily it did not affect the result. Inasmuch as the Defender was on the port tack, no doubt remains upon that point, as a vessel upon the port tack always has to give way.

The Chronicle. We cannot consider it a clear win and it will always be open to the Americans to say that it was not a fair win, and we are sure that Lord Dunraven would rather sail it over again than to have that believed by the Western world. Line for line, despite the accident, the Defender showed herself to be the faster boat.

The Times. Everybody will deeply regret the accident, whatever be the technicalities of the matter. The accounts show that the Defender sailed in a more or less crippled condition. The victory therefore awarded will not be one upon which we can look with satisfaction. If no mishap had occurred the situation would have been almost ideal from the standpoint of all who love sport. What we all wish would be to see the remaining races won alternately and the whole contest decided by a neck-and-neck finish in consequence. This disposition on both sides is only an example as applied to sports of that inborn generosity and love of fair play which comes down to both nations alike from common ancestors. Englishmen wish to see Lord Dunraven bring the cup, but the last thing they would desire would be to see it gained by technicality. This sentiment we are sure is fully understood and sympathized with by the Americans.

IT PLEASED THE "BRAW SCOTS.

GLASGOW, Sept. 10.—Twenty thousand people assembled outside the office of the Citizen today and there was great cheering and waving of hats by the crowd as the bulletins were posted. Many people were seen to display Lord Dunraven's colors.

A slight feeling of disappointment was manifested when it was learned that the Defender was overhauling her opponent, but the news of the victory was greeted with tremendous cheering. Yachtsmen here were of the opinion that the Valkyrie III would do better on a triangular course. It was pointed out in regard to the great gain which the Defender made when racing home that this was the Valkyrie's weak point on the Clyde, the Britannia having gained two minutes on the short reach frem Wemyss Bay to Craigmore.

The wish is father to the thought that the race will not be awarded to the Defender on the protest, but that the committee will order the race to be resalled on Thursday. Great satisfaction is expressed here at the better behavior of the excursion steamers which attended today's race.

LONDON, Sept. 19.—As the tender approached the White Star liner Teutonic on her arrival at Queenstown today from New York, great excitement was noticed among the saloon passengers on the deck, and they shouted to the tender: "Who won the race?"

There was a loud cheer from the passengers on learning that the Defender was victorious in the first race. It was too early to have the result of today's event. There was frantic eagerness to get the news and learn the details of the race, which had been the principal topic on board the steamer during her voyage. GOT ONLY PART OF IT.

The Insurgents Defeat the Spanish by a Clever Ruse-The Village of San Juan Demare Burned-Santiago de Cuba Surrounded

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—A special to be World from Havana under date of NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—A special to the World from Havana under date of August 30 says that there is a report about town that a great battle has been fought in Puerto Principe and that the Spanish have been defeated and the capital captured by the insurgents.

It is said that a strong force of Spanish troops left the city of Puerto Principe to make a bold attack upon the insurgents who were beseigning the town. The insurgents fled after making a weak resistance, but it was only to draw the Spanish into an ambush.

Once in the trap the Spanish were attacked in front by Gen. Antonio Maceo and in the rear by Gen. Gomes. The rebel forces obtained a complete victory and entered the capital triumphantly, 14,000 strong.

How near the truth the statement is cannot be ascertained, but Gen. Campos's immediate departure for Neuvita the day after he arrived here is suggestive of something very serious having happened.

DESTROYED THE VILLAGE.

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—A World special from Havana says that the insurgents have burned the village of San Juan Demano, in the Province of Santa Clara, twenty-four kilometres from Sagua Grande, a summer resort celebrated for its mineral waters, and have destroyed the railroad.

The insurgent chief Laso intimated to the military commander of the sarrison that death awaited him if he did not at once surrender. The answer of the Spaniard was that the civil suard did not know the freening of the word surrender. The fighting then began and lasted four hours incendiaries adding their work to the horror of the scene, and soon destroying the whole village. The Spanish forces were not driven from their position, though the insurgents numbered 500, commanded by Lazo, Antonio Castro and Julian Lugue. The inhabitants fied from their ruined homes.

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—The World says that advices by special courier received at the offices of the Cuban junta in this city are to the effect that the city of Santiago de Cuba is completely surrounded by the insurgents and that an attack is expected at any time. Gen. Antonio Maceo is personally conducting the slege. For two weeks he has completely cut off communication with the interior. From the shore can be seen scores of camprines belonging to the insurgent soldiers on the hillsides. With a field-glass persons on board ships in the harbor can readily see the Cubas pickets and sentries.

Advices have been received by the patriot representatives in New York that an effort will be made to storm the fortresses which defend the place some time this week. They are advised to remove articles of value to a safe place. It is expected that the assault will be made at night. The objective point will be the eastern portion of the city, where the main arsenal is. In this arsenal is contained a large quantity of arms and ammunition, which Gen. Maceo will endeavor to capture. The arsenal is strongly guarded by the Spanish troops, and, in addition to being under the protection of the guns at More castle, there is a strong battery on the shore.

SAN DIEGO, Sept. 10.—News has been received that a shocking triple murder was committed near Oceanside, this county, about 11 o'clock this morning. Only meagre details of the affair can be obtained tonight.

It seems that Leroy R. Stiles of Fallbrook, his wife and child and his wife's father, J. D. Borden, were encamped at, what is known as the mussel beds on the ocean beach, about two miles north of Las Flores, the latter place being some twelve miles from Oceanside. Nothing is known at Oceanside as to how the murder was committed. Only the bare facts that the three victims were dead and that they died from violence was reported there. The mussei beds are a favorite resort for Fallbrook people, who often go there to camp out and fish for a week or two at a time, and it is suppsed that the Stiles family was one of the parties.

Las Flores, the nearest village, is the merest hamlet, not more than a score of people living there. The only news of the tragedy received by the officials in San Diego was a brief dispatch to the District Attorney, saying that two persons had been murdered. It is impossible to obtain further particulars tonight.

John-

Center said that Johnson did not surrender Bustamente until forced to do so by the authorities at La Libertad. He considered it a question of international law to be solved by the authorities at Washington. United States District-Attorney Foote said that, while the steamship company could not be held responsible for the surrender, no foreign power has any right to go upon any vessel flying the American flag and take away any person for a political offense without that person's consent. When a person is on shipboard under the American flag, theoretically he is on American soil.

Foote continued: "The proper course is through diplomacy. It would be the duty of the American Minister at San Salvador to stay any execution of the prisoner Bustamente until the United States government could investigate the matter and see whether any treaty obligations had been violated. It was for refusing to interfere in the Barrundia case that Lansing B. Mizner was removed from the office of Minister Barrundia was taken from an American ship and shot, and Minister Mizner did not interfere to protect him."

not make an international issue in this case.

For some time after the tragic killing of Gen. Barrundia the policy of the government was understood to be that a passenger on a United States merchant vessel under such circumstances could not be forcibly removed from the ship, but later on there was a decided qualification of this doctrine, and the position of the State Department was precisely stated by Secretary Gresham in a letter to the president of the Pacific Mail Steamship Company, dated December 30, 1893, in connection with his complaint against the action of the Honduran government in firing upon one of that company's vessels for refusing to deliver up a passenger. The Secretary wrote, in part, as follows:

"As a comprehensive principle it is established in international law that a merchant vessel in a foreign port is within the local jurisdiction of the country with respect to offenses of offenders against the law thereof, and that an orderly demand for the surrender of a person accused of crime by due process of law, with exhibition of a warrant of arrest in the hands of the regularly-accredited officers of the law, may not be disregarded nor resisted by the master of the ship."

NEW DEVELOPMENTS THE DURRANT CASE GROWS IN INTEREST.

Mrs. Nolt Has a Story to Tell Tha May Affect the Prisoner's Fate Materially.

She Met Clarence Wolf at the Church On That Sensational Easter Sunday.

The Prosecution Claims to Have Further Evidence in the Blanche Lamont Mystery-Proceed-ings in Court.

(BY TELEGRAPH TO THE TIMES.) SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 10.—(Specia Dispatch.) Mrs. Hermann Nolt of No. 910 Twenty-first street may be one of the most important witnesses in the trial of Theodore Durrant for the murder of Minnie Williams. She will tes-tify for the prosecution and will also be called to the stand to give evidence for Mrs. Noit first came into prominent found herseif almost stepping into the blood of the murdered Minnie Williams is too well known to bear repetition. No one figured for a moment, except the lawyers and detectives for the defense, that she had seen anything around the church on that morning beyond what was published in the papers at the time. The public, the prosecution and the papers were mistaken. Mrs. Noit was possessed of testimony which she did not see fit to divulge at the time. Since then she has been made to see differently, and, as a result, will appear also as a witness for the defense.

The additional story which she has to tell has been heard by the detectives for the defense and is at least interesting. It concerns Clarence Wolfe, stepson of ex-Supervisor Taber, and brother of Elmer Wolfe, who has figured as Durrant's closest chum. In her former narrations of the incidents of Easter Sunday morning, Mrs. Noit stated that after she had been horrified by the finding of the body of Minnie Williams in the library, she immediately made upher mind to notify the church authorities. She first hurried to Dr. W. Z. King's, and, after telling him of her discovery, the two hastened to notify the pastor.

Mrs. Nolt, through an oversight possibly, failed to state at the time that she met one other person before she saw Dr. King. The person she met was Charence Wolfe. As she left the church she hastened down the board walk to the gate which is to the south of the church. As she placed her hand on the knob on the outside. She pulled the door, the other person pushed it, and in an instant Mrs. Nolt was face to face with the young man who, as she afterward learned, was Clarence Wolfe.

Wolfe.

Mrs. Noit was excited over what she had just seen in the library closet, and was eager to make the pastor acquainted with the fact that the church had been desecrated by a shocking murder. She had hurried along the walk as fast as her feet could carry her, and when she reached the gate she had puffed it open with a jerk. She had not anticipated meeting anyone and was somewhat taken back at running against a strange man.

pated meeting anyone and was somewhat taken back at running against a strange man.

Her surprise was slight, apparently, compared with that of Wolfe's. He started back and exclaimed: "What, you here?"

"Yes," replied Mrs. Nolt, "I'm here. Who are you?"

"Mr. Wolfe," he replied, hurriedly. Then he glanced uneasily at Mrs. Nolt and said something about coming over to church to bring lilles for the ladies to use in decorating the church. As there were no lilles in his hands, or indications of them anywhere in sight. Mrs. Holt thought the remark a strange one. He made no move to go into the church. In fact, he surprised her still further by remarking that he thought he would go over home to lunch. Without further conversation and abruptly, he left Mrs. Nolt and walked up Bartlett street to Twenty-third street, where he resides.

nave been there," he said, "as I was out riding all the morning with the folks."

Between 6:30 and 7 o'clock on Saturday morning Durrant and Clarence Wolfe had an hour's conversation on the corner of Bartlett and Twentythird streets. Durrant was then waiting for his horse to be shod, and while leaning against the wall of the shop, saw Clarence Wolfe coming down the street in his cart. He called to Wolfe, asking him for a paper. Wolfe got out of the cart and said that he would exchange for another paper, as they both wanted to see the latest news of Blanche Lamont. They looked over the papers, but falled to find any satisfactory account of the missing girl.

The story which Mrs. Noit has to tell at this time may or may not have a connection with the testimony given by Mrs. Noble, the aunt of the murdered Blanche Lamont, on the stand this afternoon. In answer to a question by the District Attorney she stated that Durrant and Dr. Vogel had called at her residence subsequent to the discovery of the murder, and voluntered their services and those of Dr. Vogel and Clarence Wolfe to find the missing girl. In that conversation he also stated that Clarence Wolfe knew "such places" as the pelice did not, whatever he meant by that.

TESTIMONY IN COURT.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 10.—The Durrant trial was resumed today, after.

which he said he had found hidden in the belfry.
Policeman McGreevy, who found Bianche Lamont's hat, testified that it had been carefully hidden in a remote corner of the belfry under the boards.
John T. Dare, prosecuting attorney of Police Court No. 2, testified that under the head of Bianche Lamont's body as it lay in the belfry had been placed two blocks of wood such as are common in dissecting-rooms. Asked if he discerned any marks or footprints when the body was found, Dare said that the place looked as if the body had been used as a sweep and as if it had been dragged about the room, which was untitly and dusty.

place looked as if the body had been used as a sweep and as if it had been dragged about the room, which was untidy and dusty.

The most important witness of the day was Mrs. C. G. Noble, Blanche Lamont's aunt. When the District Attorney called her name a slight, shrinking woman in dull-brown came in, a woman plain of face and giving the impression of nervous tension. On her head was a large black hat on which feathers and flowers slowly nodded as she ran the gauntlet of eyes. A dotted black vell aided her in withstanding the scrutiny. Take her for all in all, she seemed one who might easily be driven into a hysterical collapse. Such was Mrs. Noble, the aunt of Blanche Larnont, the woman in whose house the girl had made her home; from whose house she went tripping to death.

"That farther juror there wants to hear every word you say," admonished Judge Murphy, mistrusting the power of Mrs. Noble's lungs.

Then the slender woman, who seemed easily broken, developed into the most intelligent witness of the day. To be sure, she had the nasal twang of the American of the Middle West, but her voice reached well and she did not waste a word.

waste a word.

The District Attorney's question:

The District Attorney's questions drew from her that she had seen Durrant but twice there, once when he came to the door with Blanche Lamont and once when he called with his sister to get Blanche to go to a concert. Next she told how, on the morning of April 3, Blanche started off to school, her books on her arm, and how she April 3, Blanche started off to school, her books on her arm, and how she never returned. She described the clothes the girl wore.

Up stepped the District Attorney. He brought that black thing out in front of the witness, that dressmaker's dummy with the torn clothing on it. At once the interest intensified. Dickinson and Deuprey figeted and then rose together. They protested against the use of the dummy. They asked that the clothing be stripped from it.

"We will allow the garments to remain just as they are," rumbled Judge Murphy, and the defense noted an exception.

"Mrs. Noble J. call we defense noted."

ception.

"Mrs. Noble, I call your attention to these garments," said Barnes, impressively. "What garments are they?"

"The dress Blanche wore when she left my house on April 3."

"I call your attention to this skirt, was it so torn then?"

"No, sir."

"I call your attention to this rent in the neck of the basque, and ask you if that rent was in the basque when Blanche Lamont left your home on the morning of April 27"

In the District Attorney's voice was something of the thrill that has made his father great. In the "It is not" of Mrs. Noble, there was almost a sob. Back in the half-stified courtroom women wept silent tears. Up in the jury box Juror Truman's eyes were suspiciously moist. Right in front, between the witness and the prisoner, stood that black, accusing thing.

Every juror was intent upon Durrant. Their eyes had left the witness, who was answering mechanically, identifying the hat, the shoes, the books of the murdered girl. They sought some telltale look on the prisoner's face, some expression which might give a clew to innocence or guilt. He was a trifle restless under the strain. A slight flush overcame the pallor of his face. He turned in his chair and then leaned forward to say a word to Detective Morse. He was soon back in his place, however, his eyes upon the witness, his nerves in hand.

Mrs. Noble identified most of the clothing found in the hiding-places of the church as belonging to Blanche Lamont. Then came the girl's rings, which had been sent back to her before the finding of the body. She was slow and careful in her identification of these, and Durrant whispered to his mother as if commenting on the manner of testimony of the witness,

"Did you ever see Blanche Lamont after April 3?" asked Barnes.

"I never saw her again allive," replied the witness, sorrowfully.

"On that day did you see this defendant?"

"I did."

From this Mrs. Noble told of how Durrant had come to her that evening at Emanuel Church and asked if Blanche was coming to prayer-meeting. She did not tell him that the girl was missing, but said that the would not be by the property of the property of the way anything about."

Mrs. Noble was weeping as he said that offered to held in it an imputation that the girl has been as a said that he had ridden down town with her in the morning, and had promised to get her a copy of "The Newcomes."

"Did Durrant call upon you after that?"

"Yes. He called with Dr. Vogel and offered to help Clarence Wolff look for Blanche. He said he thought Wolff could go to places the police did not know anything about."

Mrs. Noble was weeping as she said this. Durrant's offer seemed to hold in it an imputation that the girl had been led astray. The thrill of sympathy with the weeping witness again went through the courtroom. The jurors were again battering Durrant with their glances. He leaned forward and whispered to Deuprey.

"Did he ever call upon you again?" Barnes went on.

"No."

"Ever before that, and after Blanche was missing?"

"No."

Then came the rings again and the introduction of the newspaper wrapper in which the postman had brought them home the day before the finding of the body. Then the court adjourned, and the most important day of the trial up to date was at an end. Mrs. Noble will continue her direct testimony tomorrow morning.

part of the searching party. He found books and a strap alleged to have been left in the church by Blanche Lamont on the day of her murder. The books were identified and introduced in evidence.

Policeman G. H. Graham was also one of the searching party and when on the stand identified a pair of shoes which he said he had found hidden in the belfry.

Policeman McGreevy. who found significance will beattached. Ang shew that he and Durrant were the only persons in the church who had keys to the lock on the library door. Noticing that the door was open, King knew at once that his friend and companion was either in the church or had been there.

He looked into the library, but saw once that his friend and companion was either in the church or had been there.

He looked into the library, but saw nothing to indicate that Durrant was in the church. His coat and vest were certainly not there, or King would have seen them and would have at once sought his friend. At the same time King smelled the odor of gas and entered the library. He lit a match to test the fixture, looked around the room and went out, closing and locking the door behind him.

To meet this story the prosecution will show by the testimony of experts, by men who were in the church a few days before April 3, that neither the gas nor the electric appliances had been disturbed for months and were in perfect order. They worked all right on the Sunday before the 3d and on the very night that Durrant claims he was overcome. Evidence will be introduced to show that if gas had escaped it had to ascend through huge funnels produced for the purpose. To be overcome Durrant would have to hold his head deliberately and without any necessity over the gas-burners.

Having introduced all of this testimony the prosecution will finish its attack with evidence, of which nothing has yet been said. Durrant, it should be understood, is a medical student who had but a few months of study before his graduation. He considered himself sufficiently a physician to prescribe for some of the young ladies of Emanuel church Sunday-school. He knew, beyond any contradiction, the simple remedies and their applications.

Another matter which loomed up in the testimony and which is likely to cut a figure in the case in some manner not divulged by the defense, concerns the marks on the casing of the door leading into the belfry. By the testimony of Detective Coleman, the attorneys for the defense have proved to their own satisfaction that at leasi one of these marks was made by the chisel which was in Pastor Gibson's tool-box. Those marks, the defense will claim, were made by the murderer in gand discovering the dead body, the defense will hold to the old theory mastering desire to revisit the scene of the crime, procured the chisel and opened the door and, after his gloomy inspection, descended the stairs, and used the chisel again to pry the door back into position. That is the only theory as to the defense aside from the ownership of the shoes and the general one of an alibi.

The Grand Canyon...

Moran's

Famous Painting.

The Grand Canyon of the Colorado River-the great Red Gorge of mid-continent-is confessedly the most stupendous, the most awful and sublime spectacle to be seen on the American continent. It surpasses all the most famous objects in nature, of a similar character, to be found in the Old World. It is, in fact, the one and unapproachable thing of its kind; its unique fame is as wide as are the borders of the Union, and has spread beyond the seas; it is world-wide.

Thomas Moran's famous painting of the Grand Canyon is a great masterpiece of art—the only attempt ever made to paint this mighty gorge on a large scale. His celebrated production is a rare art treasure.

In 1892 Mr. Moran went to the canyon commissioned to make studies for a great picture. He spent months thus occupied in that wilderness of Arizona. Having filled his artistic soul with a grand conception of a grand subject, and made the necessary sketches in black and white, and also in colors, he returned to his New York studio, went to work on his canvas, and finished the famous painting in time for exhibition at the World's Fair in Chicago, where it attracted unprecedented attention.

Later the painting was magnificently lithographed by noted New York house upon the order of the passenger department of the Atlantic and Pacific Railway Company. The reproduction of the original was made under the direct supervision of Mr. Moran, and one stipulation in the contract required that each plate and the color produced by it should be satisfactory to the painter before the work of lithograph printing was proceeded with. It required more than a score of distinct stones and as many separate printings to produce the picture as it is today, and as THE TIMES is prepared to offer it

As a Premium to Subscribers.

Of course, the expense of securing the original and then reproducing it in such a careful, thorough and artistic manner was very great, making the cost of the lithograph far more than the average of such pictures.

The following interesting letter from the lithographers. Messrs. G. H. Buek & Company of New York, more fully explains the skilled and elaborate process by which this noble lithograph was produced:

The Reproduction.

(COPY.)

"NEW YORK, August 21, 1895.

"Dear Sir: * * * The Moran Grand Canyon picture required 21 colors for its proper execution; that does not mean that there are only 21 colors in it, but that we used 21 separate colors in completing the work, and from combinations of one color with another were enabled to get innumerable tints and shades, and to so exactly reproduce Mr. Moran's original as to entirely satisfy him with the work. "Each different color is of course drawn separately on stone and printed separately on the press, so that each sheet of the work ran through our presses 21 times. The process of litho-grapy is simple in itself, but hard to explain.

A keystone is first made which outlines every separate change of color in the picture to be reproduced. By taking an impression of this on a stone, the artist is then enabled to see just where the different colors are to be worked.

stone he is working on is to be printed in red, for instance, he sees on the original certain places this red has been used and by following his keystone can easily find where it is to fall on the reproduction.

"The matter of combining colors depends on the artist's judgment to a great extent, and his ability in this line marks a good or bad artist, and his work as good or bad.
"Some artists with few colors can gain much better results than others using twice the number, depending, of course, largely, as we have explained above, on the way in which the colors are handled. "After the various colors have been drawn on the separate stones, the stones are treated with nitric acid and gum arabic. this fixes the work, and renders the stone, where there is no work, somewhat porous and susceptible to moisture, and as the ink the artist works with is of a greasy composition we then have a surface covered with grease. so to speak, where the work has been put, while outside of this work there is simply the plain stone. "The stone is then dampened, and after the damping rollers have passed over it, they are followed by the color rollers.

"The whole operation, then, is, that where the greasy work is on the stone, the moisture of the dampening rollers will not take, while where the dampness is on the stone the color rollers have no effect, only depositing the color on the greasy portion of the stone, where there is no moisture.

"Yours respectfully,
"G. H. BUEK & COMPANY."

AMERICAN MUNICIPAL BONDS
ABROAD. The Bankers' Monthly calls an issue of nearly $3,000,000 city of Chicago refunding bonds as one of the significant recent events in financial affairs. Foreign investors have taken kindly to American municipal issues and there have been but comparative-ly few bonds of American cities successfully floated in Great Britain. The Chicago issue was subscribed for more than four times over and that, at a sharp premium over the price paid by Speyer & Co., who took the entire issue. Not only was the public subscription successful, but the market for the bonds since that time has continued to advance, and the original subscribers to the issue can now find a public market which will show them a premium of 1½ per cent. over the price they gave.

The publication referred to thinks that if the attention of foreign investors were turned in the direction of American municipal securities the foreigners would find something much more worthy their attention than they have found in the corporate securities to which they have been attracted by large promises of interest. ssfully floated in Great Britain.

CALIFORNIA WINES IN LONDON. There is a general impression here that California wine is comparatively unknown in England and that it is sold there at exorbitant prices. According to a letter received in San Francisco from Dr. de Vecchi of that city, this is far from being true. In his letter, as quoted in the Chronicle, the writer says:

"During my stay in London I have learned something that has greatly and agreeably surprised me, and that is the large consumption of California wine. I had a good opportunity of inquiring into the matter, and I ascertained that nearly all of the large hotels and restaurants of London have a list of California wines, and what was even more gratifying to me was to observe that a great many customers ordered our wines at their meals. The reason for this preference, several waiters told me, was because California wine was cheap, good and well put up. Of course, I cannot discuss the quality of the wines which I found in the restaurants, but one thing I can assert, and that is that their cheapness was astounding. I could not understand how they could give me a pint bottle of sauterne, which I found tolerably good (perhaps better than in many restaurants in San Francisco,) for only 25 cents. It seems to me also just the thing for a city like London, the practice which they have introduced in the restaurants of serving a very small bottle of wine, half a pint, for 6 pence (12 cents.).

"The advertising of California wines in London is remarkable. Even in the restaurants of the India Exhibition I saw many pictures of the traditional big tree with the words 'California wines in London have an understand the contrary. Most of the hotels and restaurants of London have at least half a dozen different kinds of California wines on their lists. It is, however, a curious fact that the only hotels where I have not found a mention of our wines are precisely those patronized by Americans. For example, the Langham, the Brown and the Savoy. When I asked the reason I was told that the Americans had the habit of abusing all of the brands except their favorices and that the managers of those hotels were obliged to cut off each and every one ito prevent partiality and un mona and Redlands. The plan to bring electrical power to Los Angeles from the Kern River has already been referred to in these columns. It appears probable that within the next two years we shall see a dozen or more of such systems in successful operation, furnishing power to the large cities that is even cheaper than petroleum at the present low prices charged in Los Angeles—at least this is what the claim.

The most wonderful of all such claim.

The most wonderful of all such schemes is that at Niagara Falls, where for five years work has been proceeding on the utilization of a portion of the water power in that stupendous cataract. The works have been successfully completed, but much remains to be done in the direction of supplying power to cities at a distance. There is a great difference of opinion in regard to the distance to which electrical power may be profitably carried. Some electrical engineers claim that before long even New York and Chicago may be supplied from Niagara, so as to compete with local, steam power, while steam experts say that 150 or 175 miles is the commercial limit of power transmission. In these days of wonderful progress it would be rash to set a limit to any enterprise of this description.

One thing is certain, which is that we probably come to the front in the near future, is that furnished by the waves of the ocean. Men are working at the problem of successfully harnessing the tides, and there appears to be no reason to doubt that before long the problem will be solved. Then California will find itself with 700 miles of ocean water power on the west and a like length of mountain water power on the east, with vast deposits of petroleum fuel in between.

With such possibilities, and with the additional advantage of a climate that permits of outdoor work during every day in the year, who shall dare to say that the time is very distant when California shall be one of the great manufacturing States of the Union?

AMERICAN BEET SUGAR. Apropos of the recent discussion in regard to the possibility of profitably manu-facturing beet sugar in this country without a bounty, the following, from a recent issue of the Investor, is of in-facturing beet sugar in this country without a bounty, the following, from a recent issue of the Investor, is of interest:

"Elton Fulmer, professor of chemistry of the State Agricultural College of Washington, who has recently been investigating, the beet-sugar industry of California, declares that the whole product of the island of Formosa would not supply one-half of this State with sugar, and that the sugar-cane-growers in the South, through their journals, admit that they cannot compete with beet sugar, and that they are afraid of it. The German sugar-beet producers were so frightened last year that they sent a representative to this country to look into affairs here, and in his report he stated that we were out-doing them, and that, while their labor was slightly cheaper, the Americans were doing 50 per cent, more work to the man, and that in their country land was worth from $200 to $600 an acre, while in this country it could be had easily at from $25 to $40, and that altogether America has decidedly the best of them in production and cheapness. The quality, too, is better than theirs, and the beets of this country better and larger."

The prices quoted by Prof. Fulmer as to the cost of sugar-beet land are much too low as far as Southern California is concerned, but on the other hand the facilities for growing beets and manufacturing the sugar in this section are far superior to those which are found in any other section of the United States, and more than make up for the higher prices of land hereabouts. There can be no doubt that the beetsugar industry in Southern California is destined to develop into one of vast importance. It is not too much to expect that before long it may overshadow the citrus industry.

NEW YORK MARKETS.

(REGULAR ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORT.) NEW YORK, Sept. 10.-The stock market today was about one-third less than that of the previous day, but the course of prices was fully as irregular. The distribution of business was fair, with Sugar, Tennessee Coal, Atchison, Burlington, St. Paul and Reading the leaders. The opening was weak in sympathy with fractional declines in American stocks in London. Foreign American stocks in London. Foreign dealers were also sellers of Louisville and Nashville and Reading in this market. The apparent causes of depression were the fallure of the government bond syndicate to make good the impairment of the treasury gold reserve below the $100,000,000 mark and the unabated strength of the exchange market, which was thought to foreshadow further large exports of gold. Predictions of hardening tendency in money rates were made, but attracted little attention, although slightly higher prices were quoted later and the day for both call and time money. The plethora of idle capital is too generally appreciated to permit of any ampie, the Laigham, the Brown and the Savoy. When I asked the reason I was told that the Americans had the savoy. When I asked the reason I was told that the Americans had the rally appreciated to permit of any state of the savoy of the Americans had the savoy. The the favorices and that the manies of the regular quarterly dividend of ach and every one to prevent the day the announcement of the declaration of the regular quarterly dividend of one-half per cent. on Manhattan and of the recommendation of the payment of the required provided of the savoy of the save and growing market in London and the United Kingdom for California wine there is not the slightest doubt, and our producers can be assured that this market is rapidly increasing. I saw myself orders from a large wine merchant amounting to nearly five hundred dozen quart bottels of California wine a day. It was a source of great astonishment and gratification to me."

It is a matter for regret that Americans in Europe are so shortsighted as to throw obstacles in the way of increasing the consumption of wines that are produced in their native land.

SAN PRANCISCO'S ASSESSMENT.

By the failure of the State Board of ation to raise the valuation of n Francisco so as to make that city car its just proportion of taxation, the nent for the State had to be fixed at 68½ cents on the $100. If the undervaluation of San Francisco had been corrected in accordance with the proposition of Messrs. Morehouse and Beamer, the levy might have been kept down to about 65 cents per $100. It is a surprising fact in this connection that Message is a surprising fact in this connection. tion that Mr. George L. Arnold, mem er of the board for this section, voted against the proposition to equalize the assessment by raising the valuation of an Francisco. His failure to do so will cost the taxpayers of Los Angeles If there is any good reason for Mr. Arnold's action it is not apparent upon the surface, As The Times has heretofore pointed out, it is the custom of the San Francisco assessors to place erty, with the expectation that they will be raised to the proper figure. San Francisco will be happily disappointed in that expectation this year, thanks to Mr. Arnold's action, while the taxpayers of all the other counties of the the difference by paying about 31/2 cents more per $100 of their assessent than they would have had to pay if the San Francisco assessment had een properly revised. It will take derable explaining on Mr. Arold's part to convince the people of Los Angules county that he acted with good judgment in this matter.

Mr. Arnold's action is receiving some severe criticism from the newspapers of the State. The following paragraph from an editorial in the Galt Gazette

"Now let us look at the effect Mr. Arnold has produced on his own immediate constituency by his refusal to join Morehouse and Beamer in raising the assessment of San Francisco to a join Morehouse and Beamer in raising the assessment of San Francisco to a figure deserved and proper. His home county, Los Angeles, was not disturbed. He knew beforehand, at least by implication, that the assessment of that county would stand as fixed by its Assessor. It was the first county acted on, and the action of the board left him free to act on the cases of other counties without being hampered by interests of his own district. When it came to the vote on the motion to raise the assessment of San Francisco, If. Arnold made his bed with San Francisco, and let us see that in so doing how much he benefited his home constituency. It was realized all round in the board that certain counties were unduly assessed, and justice demanded that their assessment be reduced. A certain amount of revenue must be produced. To raise San Francisco as the deserved would have furnished enough to keep the levy down to 65 cents. Faffing to increase San Francisco's assessment, the only alternative was to raise the tax levy, and thus it is that Mr. Arabid's vote against raising San Francisco has cost the taxpayers of his home county the difference between 65 cents on the $100 and $2.5 cents on the $100 more than they would have had to pay had Mr. Arnold voted with Messrs. Morehouse and Beamer. The ame condition applies to every county in the State whose assessment was neither raised nor reduced."

FIGURES THAT TALK.

Continuing the comparative business newspapers, attention is directed to the lamentable in various material respects.

"But what hastened the agreement for union, and was probably the determining factor in bringing it to pass at this time, was the arbitrary action of England in the Corinto affair several months ago. That was a striking object lesson of the weakness of Central American States when confronted by foreign aggression, and the union for defense which we are now inaugurating is the direct outgrowth of it. Last year I was sent by the President of Nicaragua as a special minister to the Central American republics to present to their governments propositions in behalf of a treaty of union. I received fair encouragement, but before my mission was completed the events growing out of England's claim on Nicaragua transpired and I was summoned home. showing of Sunday September 8 On that date the advertising space

I think not, for when you attack a man's religion, that which has been his since the dawn of intelligence. that man is going to fight. The same question was answered by a conference in England this year, when resolutions vere adopted condemning the recent acts of brutality on the part of the Chinese, but acknowledging that the power of missionaries did not extend philanthropy of the Christian people hat disseminate the only true religion roadcast through the land."

Thus the Rochester Democrat and Chronicle anent the new honors which been heaped upon Li Hung Chang: "The wicked newspapers which indulged in irreverent remarks regarding the loss by Li Hung Chang of his yellow jacket, his peacock feather, and presumably every personal adornment out a porous plaster, will now regret their levity. The old diplomat has been called to Peking to assume the position of Imperial Chancellor. The Emperor is so glad to be again in favor with the almond-eyed millionaire that he will doubtless allow him to wear a yellow bicycle-sweater with chocolate knickerbockers."

The New York Morning Advertiser rises to remark that "the bold angler of Gray Gables should carefully recruit his strength by a regular diet, plenty of sleep, and an abundance of exposure to the playful breezes that kick up the wavelets of Buzzard's Bay. The Congress which he will presently have on his hands will be of a sort that is calculated to give him sharp exercise, not to say wakeful nights."

Plea Before the Council. The City Council met in regular session yesterday, all the members of the Council being present. Street Superintendent Howard presented a request to the Council for an additional copyist in the Council for an additional copyist in his office for a period of two months. The matter was referred to the Finance Committee. A report was received from the Park Commissioners with regard to a bill of $90 from Frick Bros., for pipe furnished the department. The commissioners requested that the Council pay the bill from some other fund than the Westlake Park fund, as the same is not in a plethoric condition. This report was referred to the Finance Committee. The report of the City Cierk, as published in The Times of Saturday, was received and adopted by the Council.

out of England's claim on Nicaragua transpired and I was summoned home. "President Zelaya thereupon decided that the time was ripe for immediate action and, without waiting for the results of my negotiations to develop in the ordinary course, he issued an invitation to all the Central American Presidents to meet at Amalpa, the capital of Honduras, Gen. Bonilla, President of Honduras, and Gen. Guiterrez, President of Salvador, responded favorably, and the three Presidents accordingly met in conference at Amalpa in July. The result of their deliberations was the treaty, the details of which have already been printed." as published in The Times of Saturday, was received and adopted by the Council.

A communication was read by the clerk from W. H. Cook, the newly-elected Police Commissioner, declining to serve on the commission appointed to open Broadway. His resignation of the position was accepted. The report of the Finance Committee, as already published, was received and adopted. The clause recommending that demands of the street-sweeping contractor, to the amount of $319 be denied, produced a word of dissent from Attorney Lillon, who was present in the interests of Contractor Hollingsworth. Mr. Dillon said that the Board of Public Works, whose duty it is to examine the streets, had failed to do so, and, therefore, the Council in taking action in this matter was laying itself liable to an action for damages. Councilman Munson resented the statements of the attorney and insisted that the board of which he is chairman had never reported recommending that money for the payment of work be withheld, except in such cases as had been personally inspected by the members of the board. This ended the discussion, and Mr. Hollingsworth will be obliged to have recourse to the courts if he wishes to have his demands paid by the Council. The report of the Board of Public Works, as published last Saturday, was adopted, with the exception of the portion relating to the abandonment of Figueroa street. The vote taken upon this recommendation resulted in a tie. Attorney Flint was present for the protestants against the abandonment of the street, but did not address the Council in regard to the matter. The reports of the Sewer and the Supply committees, as already published, were received and adopted.

Bids were received and referred to committees as follows:

To furnish land for school site, T. Wiesendanger proposed as follows:

Councilman Kingery offered a motion before the Council with reference to increasing the license fee now exacted from traveling circuses which visit the city. The Councilman stated that he considered the present license far too small, when compared with the large amount of money taken from the city by these shows. The City Clerk said that the advance agent of the commig circus had consulted with him regarding the license, and had left with him an order for M50, which is the sum now exacted by the city for an exhibition lasting two days. This information very nearly upset the plans of the Councilmen, who were anxious to rase the license, but after a lengthy discussion the City Attorney was instructed to amend the ordinance which fixes the rates of license, so that a circus cnarging an admission fee of 51 will be obliged to pay a license of $1000 for the first day and $500 for the second day. I would advise that provision be made for the payment of this mortgage and securing release of same and that the taxes for the fiscal year be settled before the matter is closed up; and further that the City Engineer be requested to report as to whether or not the certificate and deed cover the land mentioned in the bid together with the sixty-one additional feet in accordance with your instructions." The Board of Police Commiss The Board of Police Commissioners met in regular session yesterday morains, all the members of the board being present. Also that notices of warning had been given to the liquor-dealers whose cases have been before the approximation. nance. Also that notices of warning had been given to the liquor-dealers whose cases have been before the commission, without definite or positive proof of their guilt having been adduced. The Chief, in addition to this, said that T. Timm, a saloon-keeper on San Fernando street, had been discovered selling liquor last Sunday, was arrested, and on the way to the station offered the policeman $50 to drop the case. Upon this evidence it was, of course, in order for the commission to revoke the license of Mr. Timm, but it was decided to allow the reloon-keeper an opportunity to state his case before the commission, and he was accordingly notified to appear before the board at a special meeting, which will be held this afternoon.

A communication was received by the board from B. E. Akers, in which complaint was made of brutal treatment received by Mr. Akers at the hands of Officer McLain. The communication abounded in verbosity, but as the incidents alleged to navor of brutality were rather humorous than otherwise, the charges against the officer were dismissed, the Chief reporting that he considered them unfounded and false. Chief Glass made a verbal report to the commission with regard to the removal of the famous fence on Alameda street, stating that he has consulted Mr. Shafer, the owner of the property on which the fence is situated, who informed him that the property and the fence in question are sub-let to private individuals, and before the fence could be taken down these parties would have to be consulted. The matter was thus left in statu quo. The Chief also reported that the houses of prostitution on Los Angeles and Alameda street north of the City Water Company's offices had been closed during the past week, or at least were not in active operation. The Chief appeared a trifle dawed when a Times reporter, who was present, stated that he had passed by the houses in question the day before and had been openly solicited by a occupant of the cribs. The report of the Chief appeared to be satisfactory to the commissioners for the matter was allowed to drop without further discussion.

formation of the Grand Jury Yes-

The grand jury was formed yesterday and has started out on its work of investigation.

At the opening of court in Department One Judge Smith disposed of a few other matters which had been set for that time, and then directed the clark to call the names of the thirty men summoned as grand jurors. Out of the thirty twenty-five responded: Of the remaining five it was learned that three were dead and two were out of the State.

The men who had responded were duly sworn as to the questions they would answer in reference to qualifications. Judge Smith stated that if any of them were connected by contracts, or official positions with the county government they ought not to serve. Thereupon Alonzo B. Cass, John S. Thayer and Octavius Morgan were excussed, each of them stating they were connected with contract work at the Whittler State School.

The others were given an opportunity to step up to the bench and state reasons for asking to be excused, and after this had been done Judge Smith stated that J. F. Bearden, W. W. Robinson and Alfred Workman, besides the three previously excused, would be relieved from serving on the grand jury.

This being done the nineteen remain—the three previously excused, would be relieved from serving on the grand jury.

This being done the nineteen remaining were grouped and it was announced by the court that H. E. Storrs would be designated as foreman. Mr. Storrs was sworn in as such foreman and the other grand jurors took a similar cath. The jury of investigation having thus been formed Judge Smith delivered the customary charge. He touched on the need of secrecy, stating there was no need of sixting why the secrecy was required. That was the law and should be obeyed without question. The Judge went through the further formality of stating in culling them for mailty of stating in culling them directed that body to retire to the roam provided for its use.

The members of the grand jury as finally formed are as follows: Walter S. Andrews, William S. Arnold, Haffington Brown, J. B. Brown, Philip B. Chase, L. P. Crawford, P. J. Dreher, W. H. Hoegee, Albert H. Johnson, William H. Kelso, J. J. Morton, J. E. McComas, George H. Peck, E. A. Preuss, R. B. Lovell, John M. Stewart, Thomas Stovell, H. E. Storrs and A. F. M. Strong.

Preuss, R. B. Lovell, John M. Stewart, Thomas Stovell, H. E. Storrs and A. F. M. Birong.

Deputy Sheriff A. H. Graham has been detailed to attend to the grand jury and guard the entrance to its room, which is No. 43 on the upper noor of the Courthouse.

Notwithstanding the fact there has been a good deal of speculation as to the probable results of the work of the grand jury, no one seems to have any well-defined idea as to where sensations are likely to be developed. It appears to be conceded that the matter of an alleged attempt at bribery on the part of Street Superintendent Howard will be made the subject of inquiry, but beyond this the people generally posted in such matters seem to be all at sea.

A woman is on trial for setting fire to house in Pleo Heights, situated on aphtning street, near Electric street. Possibly the defense will strive to show that, instead of a case of arson, it was prely an innocent attempt to steal gas, anyway? Whether the quantity or quality is at fault it is most unsatisactory as light and more so for heating. If the reduction in price was accompanied by a reduction of the pressure some people would prefer to go back to the old schedule and supply.

State Superintendent of Instruction Black says, in writing to the Board of Education of this city, that the increase of school children in Los Angelea is 25 per cent. of the increase for the State, while the increase for the county represents 33-1-3 per cent. of the State. This is the sort of growth that is visible to the naked eye.

The old veterans assembled at Garden Grove, Orange county, Monday in a grand reunion. Hundreds of them, battle-scarred and growing feeble with old age, came together, and the day was passed in glorious association, known only to those who have faced shot and shell together. It was a meeting long to be remembered by the old soldiers.

San Diego has some big things in the vegetable line. One is a watermelon weighing ninety-eight and one-half pounds and another is a squash weighing 180 pounds. It is also noted with pleasure that a water promoter there who has persistently endeavored to announces that San Diego is short of water, announces that there is a daily supply of 10,000,000 to 15,000,000 gallons of pure water within the city limits to be had for the pumping into the city water

HAS PALADINI SKIPPED?

PEELING UNEASY.

Rumored He Has Gone to Atlanta, but Steps Will Be Taken to Bring Him Back — He Squared Himself With Mr. Castruccio.

Ugo Paladini is, in the opinion of his bondsmen, an ingrate. They are A. Vignola and N. Mercadante, who are Joint sureties for $1500. The reason of their hard feelings against Paladini was because of their belief that he had left the State, leaving them to settle with tustice.

Paladini was the editor of the now defunct local Italian newspaper L'Eco della Colonia. Quite recently he was tried and found guilty of the charge of criminal libel, on account of an editorial in his paper reflecting on the character of G. Castruccio, a leader of the Italian colony. Paladini was to have been sentenced August 31, but on that day the attorneys on both sides consented to a further continuance.

On the same day Paladini made an affidavit stating that he had become convinced that he had done Mr. Castruccio a great injustice by the publication of the articles on which the libel suits were based. He believed there was not a shadow of truth in the charges, which were instigated by others who had malevolent designs. He therefore wished to tender Mr. Castruccio an apology, both public and private, doing so voluntarily from the promptings of conscience.

This affidavit was laid before Mr. Castruccio, who said he would accept it and ask to have the two as-yet-untried libel suits dismissed and would appeal to the court to make the sentence in the one he was convicted on as light as possible, providing Paladini would cause a copy of the affidavit to be published in Il Messaggiero, an Italian newspaper printed in San Francisco which had secured the subscription list of L'Eco della Colonis when Paladini discontinued publication, and of which Paladini was local agent and correspondent. Il Messaggiero did not publish the affidavit as requested, but made a brief mention of the settlement of the difficulty and announced that Paladini was no longer the local representative of the paper, as he had left Los Angeles and the State. L'Italia, another Italian journal in San Francisco, published Paladini's mende honorable and also made mention of his having left the State.

This alarmed the ex-editor's bondsmen, and when they looked for him, lo, he was not.

The case was again called for sentence yesterday, but Paladini did not respond. His attorneys, Murphey & Gottschalk, were there and moved for a further continuance till September 20, which was granted. Meantime Paladini's bondsmen will locate him and bring him back.

Mr. Mercadante was not at his place of business

A MAGDALENE'S RETURN.

Kate Fuller Goes Back to Her Virgin Home.

Miss Katie Fuller, alias Pearl de Groot, has bade Los Angeles adieu and gone back to the home from which she eloped with another woman's husban about six months ago. She is the hand about six months ago. She is the handsome young woman who came here from Santa Clara, with W. G. Collom, a tin-horn gambler and generally worthless fellow. Collom deserted his wife and child at San Jose, who followed him here. The plucky little wife found where he was living with his frall mistress, "yanked" him out of her bed and rushed him to the District-Attorney's office where she tried to get a complaint against him for bigamy. She could not prove, though, that he was married to the Fuller girl, so the best she could do was to have him prosecuted for adultery. She concluded not to do this, however, and went back to San Jose, leaving Collom here with his paramour.

San Jose, leaving Collom here with his paramour.

The guilty couple continued to live together as husband and wife, until Charles Tell had the woman arrested for vagrancy, because he alleged he accempanied the woman to a room in the Richmond House where she robbed him while he slept.

The vagrancy charge against her was dismissed, yesterday, on condition that she would return to her home. She convinced the court officials that she would do so by exhibiting a ticket to San Jose, so she was allowed to depart. She is said to belong to a respectable family at Santa Clara who believed she was married to Collom when she eloped with him.

ed and taken before Justice N. W. Hichardson of Calabasas last Monday. Not within that it was a legal holiday the defendant was tried and, being found guilty, he was sentenced to a term in the County Jall.

Testerday Hathaway, through his attorney, appeared before Judge McKinley in Department Six and applied for a writ of habeas corpus. The petition set forth that the defendant when before the Township Court did not waive time of sentence and that no future date was set for such sentence as is required when time is not waived.

Judge McKinley held that this contention was the proper subject for an appeal from the Judgment of the lower court rather than for habeas corpus proceedings. In reference to the fact that the commitment had been issued on a legal holiday the court held that such commitment was illegal and therefore granted the betition for a writ of habeas corpus. The prisoner was thereupon discharged.

PLATT ARSON CASE.

Woman Charged With Setting Fire

Amelia Platt was in Department One which she is charged with arson was commenced.

It is alleged that on July 27 last the defendant did set fire to a house situated on the west side of Lightning street, between West Pico and Electric streets in Pico Heights. The case was called yesterday morning and a jury selected. In the course of the day five witnesses were examined.

witnesses were examined.

The defendant in this case is represented by Gen. H. A. Pierce and Deputy District-Attorney McComas is attending to the prosecution.

In the original complaint Miss Platt and a Mrs. Knox are jointly charged with the crime, but the latter was discharged. It is stated there are likely to be some interesting and perhaps sensational developments in the case today.

Judge Van Dyke in Department Four yesterday rendered judgment in favor of plaintiff in the case of R. A. Buof plaintiff in the case of R. A. Bu-recover the price of plumbing work in defendant's house. The plaintiff en-tered into a contract to do the work for a certain price. It was subse-quently learned that certain other work had to be done in order to properly con-nect the house with the sewer. The defendant contended that the contract required the plaintiff to do all that was necessary to connect the house with the sewer, and that he therefore ought to do without extra compensation, the or sewer, and that he therefore ought of the white of the delicity of the delitional work found to be necessary. This contention is decided to be un-gasonable. Plaintiff is awarded judg-nent for $57.50 and attorney's fees.

He stole Pies.

William Ehring, a young man under 18, appeared before Judge Smith in Department. One yesterday to answer to the charge of burglary. He entered a plea of guilty and was sentenced to the State, industrial school for two years. Ehring, said, he was born in Pennsylvania, and, that his mother was dead. He could not get on well with his stepmother and came to the Pacific Coast thinking to get work, which, however, he failed to do. He entered the tent of a man named Garrison in Santa Monlea and stole four ples, for which burglary he was arrested and brought to his present sorry predicament.

The case of Alex Burness, Jack Coyne and Sam Reddick, charged with felony and Sam Reddick, charged with felony, was dismissed in Department One, on motion of the District Attorney yesterday. The complaint against the defendants was that they offered to take a bribe when they were about to be called as witnesses on the matter for which the money was proposed to be paid. Deputy. District Attorney McComas stated to the court that there was no evidence to warrant a trial.

in which the plaintiff, an infant of the (age of 10 years, sought to recover damages for ejectment from a train of the defendant. At the close of the testimony for the plaintiff, defendant made a motion for a non-suit, which was denied. Other testimony was introduced, and the case was submitted to the jury, which rendered a verdict in favor of the plaintiff for $500. From this the defendant appealed.

It is held in this case that the motion for non-suit should have been granted. It is recited that the plaintiff in company with three other girls, took passage on the cars of the defendant at Bond Station for the purpose of being carried to Tropico. The rate of fare between these stations was 10 cents. When the conductor asked for their fare, the plaintiff tendered him 20 cents as fare for herself and her two sisters, who comprised three of the party. The conductor told her the fare was 10 cents for each of them, and that, unless they paid, they would have to get off. The plaintiff then told the conductor that she did not like to go on without the others and that if they got off she would get off, too. Thereupon the conductor handed the money back to the plaintiff, and when the next station was reached he stopped the train and the plaintiff with her two sisters and the other girl got off. There was no evidence of the use of any violence or oppression or force toward the plaintiff on the part of the defendant or its employees. There was evidence tending to show that the conductor on this morning did not were as a badge unon he ployees. There was evidence tending to show that the conductor on this morn-ing did not wear any badge upon his cap.

The decision holds that without a badge indicating his office the conductor is not authorized to demand or receive fare or ticket from the passenger or to exercise any of the powers of his position. The passenger in such a case would be justified in refusing to pay him his fare or to comply with his orders. But it does not follow that if the passenger recognizes him as the conductor and pays his fare he can recover it back on the ground that the conductor was not "authorized" to receive ft. The opinion in conclusion states that the verdict was excessive. The opinion was prepared by Justice Harrison and is concurred in by Justices Van Fleet and Garoutte.

In the case of Deering & Co. (respondents) vs. Richardson-Kimball Co. (defendant) and Los Angeles National Bank and I. A. Lothian (appellants) the appeal of the Los Angeles National Bank from the order denying appellant's motions to vacate a former order requiring said bank to pay to respondent the sum of $1356.22, are dismissed. But on the appeals of said Lothian and said bank from said former order that order is reversed, and respondent corporation has leave to ap-mer order that order is reversed, and respondent corporation has leave to apply to the Superior Court on the findings of record in the proceeding supplementary to execution, for an order ply to the Superior Court on the findings of record in the proceeding supplementary to execution, for an order permitting it to institute an action against the Los Angeles National Bank pursuant to sec. 720, Code of Civil Procedure. This opinion was prepared by Justice Vancilef, is concurred in by Justices Belcher and Britt and is affirmed by Justices McFarland, Temple and Henshaw.

In the case of Sarah B. Simpson (respondent) vs. B. F. Simpson (appellant) the judgment of the lower court is affirmed. The action was one in which Sarah B. Simpson sued for divorce on the grounds of desertion and fallure to provide. Judgment was rendered in favor of plaintiff. From this judgment the defendant appealed, contending that he married the plaintiff under duress by threats of plaintiff under duress by threats of plaintiff under dures by the same cause. The record of that cause, the decision recites, shows that it was an action brought by the defendant against the plaintiff to annul the marriage on the ground of duress and was not an action for divorce. The Supreme Court holds that the defendant against the plaintiff to annul the marriage on the ground of furters as does not prevail. The decision furters as well as a superior of the same cause of the same cause in effect, between the decree of divorce in this action and a decree annulling the marriage in his action in Colorado, is that the latter would scandalize the plaintiff (to marry whom he appears to have been under the strongest possible moral obligation) and bastardize his natural son, born after the alleged marriage."

It is decided in the case of Yorba (appellant) vs. Ward (respondent) the

It is decided in the case of Yorba (appellant) vs. Ward (respondent) that the judgment and order of the lower court are reversed for the reasons given in the opinon heretofore rendered in Department One (38 Pac. Rep. 48).

U. S. District Court.

ELECTRICITY.

Prof. Leo Daft Spoke Before the Selence Association.

The last ten years has seen a wonder ful Jack-and-the-Beanstalk growth in the field of electricity. Prof. Leo Daft addressed the Southern California Science Association last evening on this attractive topic. Prof. Daft has ever been a ploneer in original investi-gation. He built in 1883 the "Ampere," one of the first electric cars. In 1885 he invented the trolley attachment, now made Los Angeles his home, and will pursue his labors.

Prof. Daft spoke first of the growth

Prof. Daft spoke first of the growth of the incandescent light. At first it was very expensive. It took large horse-power to do a very little work. The lamps themselves were very hard to make and lasted but a few hours. Now the world is ablaze with the incandescent light.

It was in 1883 Prof. Daft built his first electric car, the "Ampere." It was a crude affair, with an infinite capacity for getting out of order. In January, 1888, seven years ago, there were only twenty-five miles of track and but minety-five cars in the country. Now there are 7000 miles of track and 15,000 electric cars. Two weeks ago a new ninety-four ton electric locomotive reached a speed of sixty-one miles on a gradient, which was equivalent to seventy-five miles on level track.

Prof. Daft spoke of the telephone, the study of alternating currents, the microphone and many other interesting things. Several questions were asked and answered, after which the audience took turns hearing a watch tick, the microphone magnifying the sound till it seemed like the pulse of a steampump.

lightfully, in honor of her guest, Mis Guenther of Orange. The guests wer in costume, representing the titles of books, and games and charades were played. The prizes were books, the first being a copy of "L'Abbe Constantin." the second a poem by Ralph Waldo Emerson, and the booby, "Little Darling's A B C Book." The house was prettily decorated, roses, hellotrope and ferns overflowing huge bowls, and smilax wreathing the chandellers and mantels. In the dining-room a large bowl of roses occupied the center of the table, and tralls of smilax were prettily arranged about it. CITY OF PARIS

A reporter called, on Wednesday evening, May 8, 1895, at the residence of Mr. William McMahon, residence of Mr. William McMahon, No. 1688 Pearl street, Brooklyn Village (Cleveland,) O., to learn, if possible, the cause of the noticeable improvement in his physical condition over that of a year ago, when he was a sufferer from indigestion and various organic disorders. "You see," began Mr. McMahon, "to start with, my work—that of setting type at the case—allows me little chance for bodily exercise, and is altogether too confining for anybody who is the least subject to indigestion or dyspepsia. Perhaps not more so than many another mechanic or artisan who is constantly indoors and under severe mental strain, while the physical development is sadly in need of something to kee; it in trim. Well, that has been my sadly in need of something to ket; it in trim. Well, that has been my complaint for years, and some months ago I became very bilious, and constipation made life miserable for me at times. Then it took a seat in my LIVER, which became noticeably inactive, and I became alarmed about it. The first thing I turned my attention to was to secure a 'liver regulator,' which, however, failed to regulate; next I sought reilef in 'liver pills,' which so pained and griped me that the cure was, I thought, worse than the disease. The next thing I did was to throw away the whole. 'shooting match,' and resolve to take no more proprietary medicines. However, on hearing my tale of woe, one day, at the office, a fellow-workman offered me a small Tabule—Ripans, he called it—which, he said, he would guarantee to act on the liver. I took it under protest, expecting to be doubled up in about fifteen minutes with the 'gripes.' But I was agreeably surprised in its action. It was very gentle, and I resolved to try a box. Since then I have gradually noted an entire change in the working of my system, and think that Ripans Tabules are the best remedy for liver and stomach troubles this side of anywhere. They are really a substitute for physical exercise. Have one before you go?" And Mr. McMahon produced his box of "stand-bys" from his inside pocket as the reporter took his leave, the part of the price 160 cents a box in sent to The hear Chemical Company. No. 10 Spruce st.

Claims to Be Able to Cut Tele phone Rates in Two if He is Given a Franchise and Numer

Some months ago there loomed up on the horizon of the City Hall an applicant for an electric rallway franchise in East Los Angeles. After a persistent battle for the franchise, which finally resulted in defeat, the details of which have been chronicled by The Times, Mr. Laguna, the applicant and bidder, announced that the company backing him had decided to spend its wealth in establishing a rival telephone plant and system in this city, and to that end Mr. Laguna, as the company's repre-Mr. Laguna, as the company's repre-sentative, made application to the City have prevented the preparation of the document.

Among the Councilmen who are known to oppose the granting of the franchise, the opinion prevails that Mr. Laguna is an irresponsible person who seeks the franchise in question for purposes of speculation. Acting Mayor Teed declares that should the ordinance of intention pass the Council and come to him for approval he will refuse to sign the ordinance until Mr. Laguna satisfies him that a reputable and responsible company is back of the proposition to establish another telephone system in Los Angeles.

Meanwhile Mr. Laguna has established himself in one of the business blocks of the city, from which point he is sending out alluring circulars to prospective telephone subscribers, promising them a reduction of from 50 to 75 per cent, in telephone rates should they give him or his company an order, for "'phones." He claims to have already secured 200 of the 800 subscribers necessary to warrant the establishing of his plant.

T. FOO YUEN, M. D., Imperial Chinese Physician,

The only one in this coun'ry practicing medicine who has graduated from the Imperial College of Medicine at Pexing, China and who possesses a diploma conferred by that college, countersigned by the Emperor cf China.

Dr. Foo locates the seat of all diseases and the causes of all external marifiestations and symptoms of diseases in either sex, and by an examination of the pulse alone.

By the first examination Dr. Foo is able to locate the seat of the disease. By each succeding examination he will learn more of the condition of the system, the extent that the disease has injured the vital organs and the degree of the constitutional power of the patient.

ceeding examination he will learn more of the condition of the system, the extent that the disease has injured the vital organs and the degree of the constitutional power of the patient.

The climatic conditions vary from day to day, as also does the food, habits and practices of mankind. All of these have a warked influence on the human system, and every day there are changes going on in the human system that Dr. Foo needs to become acquainted with, especially in cases of long standing, before he will declare to the patient.

Dr. Foo does not attempt to cure incurable cases. He will neither furnish them medicine nor take their money. The only way to ascertain whether or not a case is curable is to allow Dr. Foo to make a test. To do this, at least fifteen days is required; in some cases he does not decide under a twenty days' test treatment.

In each and every form a complete cure is possible in the early stages of sickness.

Usually an examination once a day for about ten days is sufficient for Dr. Foo to become thoroughly acquainted with the natural and unnatural conditions of the patient and be able to decide to a certainty whether or not the case is curable.

Patients suffering with long-standing diseases must not forget that it takes Dr. Foo quite a time to rid the system of the numerous mineral poisons of which they have been partaking during all these years, as directed by their physicians: as it is a common every day practice with the average modern school doctors to prescribe these poisons indiscriminately to those who may be so unfortunate as to be treated by them. These mineral poisons are also contained in many of the leading "putent medicines" that are rampant throughout our land, appearing under glowing pictures and seeductive advertisements, thereby deceiving and misleading the unfortunate invalids, who are often induced to try many of the 'cure-alls' with the hope of reflect, but always with the same results, viz: "That, instead of being benefited, their health has been injured and their diseas

Cleanse the system and nature completes the cure.

It is important that the system be cleansed as soon as any sign of ill health presents itself. In fact, the system should be cleansed every-year, and the proper time to take the cleansing treatment is in the spring, when the grass buds and all vegetation is upward coming, when all nature makes her greatest effort to grow and produce.

It is a great mistake for the patient to allow even slight colds, headaches, constipation, indigestion, piles or a lameness in any part of the body to continue. It may seem to be a condition that will soon wear off, but such conditions are warnings that nature has been imposed upon and needs assistance, else serious consequences follow, sooner or later.

In China the better class of people take the system-cleansing treatment regularly stery spring. They do not wait for attacks of sickness but take the modicine as a means of prevention of sickness when the heated season arrives and to insure permanent good health during the changes in the passing of the four seasons of the year. For hundreds of years a custom has prevaited among a certain class in the Chinese Empire of employing physicians by the year to keep them in good health. The doctor, realizing the responsibility, makes periodical examinations by feeling of the pulse of those under his care, usually every two or three weeks. In case a patient suffers from an illness more than a common cold, or that caused by some indiscretion on the part of the patient, the doctor is discharged by the patient and another physician is employed.

The philosophical Chinese consider preventative medicine equally as indispensable as food.

Dr. Foo does not, in any case, resort to the use of the knife in his treatment, his exitraculous.

HEMORRHOIDS CURED WITHOUT CITTING. BRONCHITIS AND OTHER THOUBLES CURED WITHOUT LOCAL IREATMENT.

The Flowery Kingdom Herb Remedy Co., Redlands, Cal.—Gentlemen: I theerfully respond to your request for a statement of my experience in treating with Dr. Foo.

By the advice of specialist physicians I was about to submit to an operation for hemorrhoids when Dr. Foo moved mo my eighborhood. I went to see him out of curiosity, never for a moment dreaming that any wisdom or skill could be possessed by a Chinaman.

An examination by the pulse alone not only convinced me of Dr. Foo's superior skill, but completely astonished me. He explained to me that the cause of mytroubles dated back thirteen years to the birthof my son, and that the so-called bronchitis and ulcers in the throat, pains in the cheaf and generally debilitated condition, and the hemorrhoids all had their origin file one kind of poison, that at times would manifest itself in different forms and in different portholes all had their origin file one kind of poison, that at times would manifest itself in different forms and in different portholes. The correctness of his diagnosis prompted me to take a copyse of medicine which proved to be more satistatory than I had dared to hope for all took just sixteen weeks' treatment, which gured me completely. A SECRET SESSION.

COMMITTEE MET TO INVESTIGATE RABBI BLUM'S CHARACTER.

Conclusion Has Been Reached Routine Business Transacted by the Board of Education Last Evening-Director Grubb's Re-

There was evidently an understand-There was evidently an understand-ing among the members of the Board of Education last evening that a se-cret session was to be held in Super-intedent Foshay's rooms before the regular meeting of the board convened in the Council chamber, for at 7:30 o'clock all the members of the board, with the wills, were closeted in the closest privacy discussing something which they very evidently desired to keep secret. It leaked out later in the evenprivacy discussing something which they very evidently desired to keep secret. It leaked out later in the evening that the subject of discussion was the much-mooted question of the charges of immoral conduct which have been made against Rabbi Blum, who was assigned by the board to the position of French teacher in the High School. The committee which was appointed to investigate these charges has been rather reluctant to undertake the task, but it was decided at the caucus held last evening to hold two sittings of the committee, when the question of Rabbi Blum's fitness will be considered and the charges against him heard. Directors Grubb, Fulton and Garland constitute this committee, and Director Garland is understood to possesses the evidence which will be produced for the inspection of the committee. Mr. Garland denies having made charges of any sort against the rabbi, but does not hesitate to say that the charges will be forthcoming in due time. Mr. Loeb, the organist of the synagogue, whom Rabbi Blum accused of circulating the stories besmirching his character, denies the charge, and to a Times reporter declared yesterday that, while the stories had come to him, he had never repeated them and did not originate them.

After the adjournment of the secret session last evening, the secretary proceeded with the regular order of business, reading a communcation from W. E. Kimmell, in which his resignation of the position of J. B. Byers and A. M. Grant for the position were referred to the Janitors Committee, which will report to the board in the matter at the next regular meeting. The Finance Committee, was questioned by Director Garland, who said that intimations had come to him that the lead pencils supplied by the firm were not identical with the samples presented with the bids. Upon this representation the bill was not approved by the board the piled by the firm were not identical with the samples presented with the bids. Upon this representation the bill was not approved by the board, the matter being referred to the Supply Committee for investigation.

The Building Committee reported having rented two rooms at Thirtieth street for $40 a month, and one room at Spring street for $10, also the lob adjoining the Griffin-avenue school for $10 a month, for the purpose of placing upon it temporarily the old school building. The committee also reported having contracted for the moving of the Griffin-avenue building for $100. All of the above recommendations were adopted.

The High School Committee reported

The High School Committee reported recommending that permission be given for the use of the following books in the High School, as follows: "Gage's Principles of Physics," "Gray's Lessons in Botany" or "Campbell's Structural Botany" and two Spanish text books, "Pepila Jimenez" and "Partira Tiempo," These recommendations were adopted by the board. The report of the committee which was presented to the hoard at the meeting of September 6, was adopted last evening. The report is as follows:

"We recommend the adoption of the course of study for the kindergarten, primary and grammar grades as prepared by the superintendent and deputy.

"We further recommend the adoption."

Before an adjournment of the board was had, Director Grubb arose to a question of personal privilege, requesting the secretary to read an account taken from The Times, of the remarks of Concellmant Ashman near certain stories Director Grubb was alleged to have circulated it will be remombered that Councilman Ashman accused Mr. Grubb of saying that because of his Mr. Ashman's political faith it was not possible for the Seventh Ward to bitain its just share of the secretary credited to have circulated. DIED IN SOLITUDE.

Death of an Invalid Hermit Near

Acton. Coroner Campbell returned from Ac ton yesterday afternoon, where he held an inquest on the remains of Anton Cassanovas, a hermit invalid, who was found dead in his tent in the mountains.

Cassanovas was a native of Switzerland, 37 years of age. He came to Los Angeles some months ago and lived for a while on Fifth street. Being very ill with consumption he went to the mountains recently, in the hope of bettering his health. He pitched his tent in Elysian Canyon, six miles from Acton, where the disease wasted his life away. Lack of attention perhaps hastened the end, but the jury rendered a verdict of death from natural causes. There was very little food or property of any kind in the tent. The Coroner took the body to Acton, where he buried it.

Cassanovas belonged to the Order of the Sons of Herman. He has no known relatives here.

This has prompted Stoll & Thayer to announce cut rates on a few of the text books they have and this action has stirred up the other dealers to such a degree that a book war may ensue.

PASADENA.

WOMAN DROWNED IN THE VIL LA-STREET RESERVOIR.

Was Demented and Committed outhern Pacific Franchise-The Street Inspection Outrage-Note

PASADENA, Sept. 10.—(Regular Correspondence.) This morning at 11:45 o'clock, Albert H. Ninde, the zanjero of the Lake Vineyard Land and Water Company, in making his usual inspection of the Villa-street reservoir, was horrified to see the body of a woman floating on the surface of the water, face downward, her hair loose and outspread about the hidden face, and the lower part of the body submerged. Mr. Ninde called Mr. Horton, who happened to be passing, to his assistance, and together they removed the corpse from the water. It was about eight feet from the edge of the reservoir, and it was evident from the discoloration of the flesh that the woman had been dead some hours. Reynolds & Van Nuys's undertaking wagon was called, and the police notified. This afternoon at 5 o'clock Coroner Campbell came out from Los Angeles, and held an inquest over the remains. The verdict was sucide.

The dead woman, Miss Celestia Phenix, had resided at the corner of Illinois street and Moline avenue for something over a year with her sister. Mrs. Mary Payne, widow of William Payne, and previous to her coming to Calliornia had been an inmate for ten years of an insane asylum at Hamilton, Cnt. She was pronounced cured by the physicians, and discharged About Ilfteen months ago she was brought here. She has exhibited at times a mild form of dementia, but was deemed perfectly harmless, although Mrs. Burnight, her niece, testified at the inquest that she had freqently spoken of suicide, and especially of drowning herself. Monday morning at 7 o'clock she left her sister's house with the avowed intention of committing suicide, but no traces of her could be found, although her relatives and the police exerted themselves, and, among other places, the reservoir was cursorily examined, though the officers had no clew that would lead them to suppose that ahe would drown herself.

The strange fact that her body came almost immediately to the surface of the water, and was very little bloated and discolored, puzzled the officials somewhat, but it is probable that by throwing herself into the weter upon her face she was quickly suffogated.

As soon as the water company learned that a body had been found in the reservoir, the supply was diverted into the water pipes. As there were 20,000,000 gallons of water in the reservoir is surrounded by a high picket fence acress the topoof which barbed wire is stretched, but that for one demonstrated.

Miss Phenix was 42 years old, and is said to have well-to-do relatives in the

CITY COUNCIL.

The City Council met in regular sestion this afternoon and its business was levoted mainly to matters affecting the tranchise of the Southern Pacific toad. The original franchise of the company permitted the construction of a single track road, but from Glenarm street to Colorado street there is a double track, which has been laid by the company and which it was clever enough to finish upon its right-of-way, before asking the Council for a franchise covering the same. This will doubtless be regarded as a piece of sharp practice by many people, and when one of the Trustees asked the representative of the road who was present in the Council chamber what the company would do in case any one overbid them for the franchise, and whether they would take CITY COUNCIL. who was present in the Council chamber what the cempany would do in case any one overbid them for the franchise, and whether they would take up the other track, that individual suggested that there would be some difficulty in any one getting the right without trespassing. Formally the company asked permission of the Council to have its franchise so amended that instead of the switch which they are entitled to put in on Broadway, they be permitted to give eight feet for a side-walk, and in consideration of their paving Broadway from Colorado street to Green, all the property-owners on the west side of the street agreed to waive their objection to the fence which is to be placed along the outer edge of the sidewalk, stipulating, however, that the fence shall have at least three openings eight feet wide. Judge Weed opposed these gates, on the ground that the street would be continually blockaded by hackmen and expressmen, who would otherwise be compelled to remain on Colorado street, which is more than twice the width of Broadway. Yet since it was the wish of the property-owners, the proposition of the company was accepted. Referring to the construction of the double track, which the company maintains is necessary for their business, an ordinance was drafted for the advertising of the sale of the franchise.

A resolution of intention was passed affecting the alley extending from Broadway to Frost Court, closing the same to the public, and Mrs. Belle Jewert's petition for permission to have a switch from the main line of the Southern Pacific to her warehouse near Raymond Hill was favorably acted upon.

The complaint against the dairy at the corner of Bradford and Bellefontaine streets was withdrawn by the complainants, as the owners have evidently complied with the sanitary regulations, and the petition of Mrs. Tillie Phillips, for the right to erect a veneer building on lot 2 of Wooster's subdivision was granted.

STREET INSPECTION.

STREET INSPECTION.

Some time ago attention was called to the outrage upon taxpayers that the continued job of the street inspectors on the "extended time" of the contractions of street work has become inknown inknown and suggested that it was the view of the community that when an extension is granted the inspectors shall be paid by the dilatory contractors. Today in the Council meeting Dovey & Fain's application for a second extension of twenty days on North Fair Oaks avenue, was thoroughly discussed. Thirty days extension was granted to these contractors about a month ago, and the further request was regarded by ludge Weed and Trustee Hamilton as an outrage upon the people of Riving Fair Oaks avenue, Judge Weed said what has been said in substance by service taxpayer interested in these extension that contractors have no right to bid STREET INSPECTION.

THE VETERANS MEET. THE VETERANS MEET.

The old soldiers from all over Orange county met at Garden Grove Monday in the fifth annual session of the Union Veterans' Association. Hundreds of the "boys" were there. Many were scarred with bullet and shell, and others, whose steps are growing feebler each year with the coming of Father Time, were there to meet their comrades and to talk a little of the days gone by when they were in the vigor of their manhood. These meetings are held annually and are looked forward to by many of the old soldiers with a great deal of anticipation.

The meeting was a grand success in every particular and there was not an old soldier present, either of the blue or the gray—and both were there—who did not go home in the afternoon with his memory greatly freshed on incidents in his life that had transpired in the 70°s, by the thrilling recitals given by some of his comrades.

Next year the association will meet at Orange.

officer McGrath Reinstated—A Murder Mystery Cleared Up.

SANTA BARBARA, Sept. 10.—(Regular Correspondence.) At an adjourned meeting of the City Council this afternoon the Police Committee reported on the investigation of the charges against Night Officer M. McGrath, recommending that he be reinstated. The report was adopted, and McGrath was ordered to appear for duty tonight.

The charges against McGrath were brought by Councilman Caesar Latalliade, who avered that McGrath had deserted his beat to go to a circus train; had made improper proposals to women on the streets; had frequented asloons and houses of ill-fame, and in other ways had been negligent in the performance of his duty.

In a rather lengthy report the committee found that in most instances cited by Latailiade McGrath had acted under instructions of his superior officer; there was no evidence whatever in support of the allegation that he had insulted women. The only charge that could reflect on McGrath was that he had remained in saloons longer than necessary; but the evidence was not sufficient to warrant his discharge. The matter was dismissed with the suggestion that in future he avoid saloons except when called.

Santa Barbara, men, as having been implicated in ms murder, has been proven utterly false. A dispatch was received hast evening from the Sheriff at Lewiston, Idaho, in answer to an inquiry from Sheriff Hicks of this county, in which it was stated that no body had been discovered, and that there was no truth in the report that Van Hubbard had been murdered. The story was started by the fact that the three men, De is Cuesta, Botello and Ruiz, returned without Van Hubbard, who had gone with them to the mines. THE MYSTERY CLEARED.

Cummings Brothers Almost Escape A Fatal Aceident.

A Fatal Accident.

A probable jail delivery was averted here yesterday when Sheriff Johnson discovered a false key which easily opened doors of cells in which the Cummings boys, charged with the murder of T. C. Naramore, are confined. The prisoners had fashloned keys from bones with which they were able to unlack the doors of their cells. The officers, becoming suspicious regarding them, instituted a search which brought to light the means by which the prisoners hoped to get into the common room of the jail from which escape would not be difficult to desperate criminals.

LARGE LAND PURCHASE.

LARGE LAND PURCHASE.

The Colorado Colonization Company has purchased 55,000 acres of land of R. B. Taylor of South Riverside; This land lies in Pahrump Valley, and will be on the line of the California and Eastern Railroad. In this valley there rises out of the ground 350 inches of water in one place, and at other places there are large mounds of dirt in the valley with water pouring out of the top, indicating that artesian wells can be successfully bored. A townsite has been laid out and the land subdivided into fwenty-acre tracts. The head office of the land company is in Chicago. A. C. Hays is local superintendent. A stage line of two Concord coaches will be put on at once between Manvel, the present terminus of the Nevadas Southern, and Pahrump. The land company claims to be able to grow all kinds of nuits and fruits, except cranges and lemons. Machines for boring wells to a depth of 1000 feet are now being constructed, and the land company proposes to bring in settlers rapidly this winter.

A FATHER'S APPEAL The account of the arrest of Vadim Demens, a member of the senior class in the Los Angeles High School, for two in the Los Angeles High School, for two attempted hold-ups at North Cucamonga have appeared in previous correspondence. The father, P. A. Demens, is here from Los Angeles to see what can be done for his son. Today he addressed a letter to a local paper in which he denies having received any such letter from his son as had been published in the newspapers. He also asserts that it is unfair to charge that he is expending money on his son's defense for the purpose of defeating the ends of justice.

The young man had his examination before Judge Knox today, and was held in both charges, and ball fixed at $1000 in each case. The ball has not yet been furnished, but it is thought that the father will get the necessary security to effect his son's release pending the trial of the cases in the Superior Court.

Great Interest in Admission Day

Festivities—Man Drowned.

SAN DIEGO, Sept. 10.—(Regular Correspondence.) Thousands of people were made happy here yesterday witnessing the entertainments of the Admission day celebration. The parade in the morning included the military and civic societies. But most interesting cf all was a 'bus load of the pioneers of San Diego. On the front seat sat
"Father" A. E. Horton, bearing his four-score years and ten with an erectness that would do credit to a West Point cadet. Doubtless this veteran thought of the days, not so very many years ago, when he bought the land now comprising the business center of San Diego, for 25 cents an acre. The exhibition of the ladder truck G. B.
Grow, on the plaza, in the afternoon, was most interesting. This truck, with its telescopic ladders aggregating a length of seventy-five feet, is the first machine of its kind built on the patented plans of A. B. Cairnes, chief of the fire department. It answers the purpose not only of a ladder, but also that of a water tower. Attached to the ladder is a hose with a nozzle at the topmost round. Through this hose the streams of two or more engines can be thrown, while the elevated nozzle, seventy-five feet above the street, can be moved in any direction by means of ropes in the hands of operators at the foot of the ladder. The ladders are on a truck which is but nineteen feet long from hub to hub. One point of superority of this ladder over all other mechanical fire ladders is that when the truck is backed toward a burning building the ladders are raised in an arch toward the building instead of in an arch away from the structure. Thus is it possible to raise the ladders without interfering with electric wires. This ladder can be raised between the wires and a building wherever there is a clearspace of ten feet or so. Four men can operate the ladders, the first section of the ladders being raised into position by hydraulic pumps. The weight of the truck is 7500 pounds. During Monday's exh

for work which they are unable to complete in time. After some emphatic discussion of the subject, the Trustees agreed that no extension should be granted unless Dovey & Fain should bear the expense of the street inspection, and that it was the sense of the Council that it was the sense of the Council that it was the sense of the Council that it as a day was an outrageous price for street inspection, and that any number of men could be found glad to get the work at $2 a day.
